The Art Of Architecture:

Germain Boffrand Caroline van Eck,2017-10-03 This title was first published in 2003 Germain Boffrand was one of the great French architects of the early eighteenth century His work encompassed not only the design of town and country houses for the wealthy but also mines bridges and hospitals His Livre d'Architecture is one of the most original books on architecture ever written in France Taking the Art of Poetry by the Latin poet Horace as its starting point it developed an aesthetic of architecture focused on character style and the emotional impact of a building that influenced Blondel Le Camus de Mezieres and Soane and is still central to contemporary debate about the nature and meaning of architecture Translated for the first time by David Britt Boffrand's text is here accompanied by an extensive introduction and notes by Caroline van Eck who situates Boffrand within the main issues of eighteenth century architectural aesthetics Beautifully illustrated including all the pictures chosen by Boffrand for his original publication this book is an invaluable tool for teaching the history of architectural theory and an essential work for any architectural library Germain Boffrand is published with the assistance of the Getty Foundation The Art of Architectural Drawing Thomas Wells Schaller,1997-03-18 Lavishly illustrated this book thoughtfully presents and discusses architectural images which both derive from and inspire the act of building Beautiful illustrations fill the pages paying tribute to the process of image making as an exercise of the imagination Also covered are techniques for composing architectural images including how to employ the best media and graphic devices and more 157 b w illus 50 color illus The Art of Architecture A. E. Richardson,1958 The Art of Architecture McDowell, Goldstein, Architects,1968 The Mirror of Architecture: Or The Ground-rules of the Art of Building Vincenzo Scamozzi,1676 The Art of Architecture Sir Albert Edward Richardson,1972 The Art and Architecture of English Benedictine Monasteries, 1300-1540 Julian M. Luxford,2005 Highly Commended in the Longman History Today Book of the Year Prize 2007 The patronage of Benedictine art and architecture and the circumstances that made it possible and desirable reveal much about the ambitions beliefs and allegiances of both the order and those who interacted with it moreover analysis of such patronage also improves our understanding of some of the most important and beautiful buildings sculpture illuminated manuscripts stained glass and other artefacts surviving from the middle ages In this survey focussing on the Benedictine monasteries and nunneries in south west England including Glastonbury during the 240 years leading up to the dissolution of the religious orders under Henry VIII the author discusses the question in terms of internal practice initiated by Benedictine monks and nuns and external practice for which non monastic agents were responsible and analyses the historical circumstances affecting the commission and the purchase of art and architecture Throughout he takes care to situate the study of buildings and their embellishment within the broader context of Benedictine culture The text is lavishly illustrated with forty five black and white plates of art architecture and documents many of which have not previously been reproduced Dr JULIAN M LUXFORD is Lecturer at the School of Art History St Andrews University The Theory of

Architecture Paul-Alan Johnson,1994-04-18 The Theory of Architecture Concepts Themes Practices Paul Alan Johnson Although it has long been thought that theory directs architectural practice no one has explained precisely how the connection between theory and practice is supposed to work This guide asserts that architectural theory does not direct practice but is itself a form of reflective practice Paul Alan Johnson cuts through the jargon and mystery of architectural theory to clarify how it relates to actual applications in the field He also reveals the connections between new and old ideas to enhance the reader's powers of critical evaluation Nearly 100 major concepts themes and practices of architecture as well as the rhetoric of architects and designers are presented in an easily accessible format Throughout Johnson attempts to reduce each architectural notion into its essential concept By doing so he makes theory accessible for everyday professional discussion Topics are arranged under ten headings identification definition power attitudes ethics order authority governance relationship and expression Areas covered under these headings include Utopic thought in theories of architecture Advocacy and citizen participation in architecture The basis of architectural quality and excellence The roles of the architect as artist poet scientist and technologist Ethical obligations of architecture Rationales for models and methods of design How authority is determined in architecture How architects structure their concepts Conventions of communication within the architectural profession Each section begins by showing the etymology of key terms of the topic discussed along with a summary history of the topic's use in architecture Discussions probe the conceptual and philosophical difficulties of different theories as well as their potential and limitations in past and present usage Among the provocative issues discussed in terms of their relationship to architecture are chaos theory feminism service to the community and the use of metaphor Johnson points out with stunning clarity the intentions as well as the contradictions and inconsistencies of all notions and concepts All architects and designers as well as students and teachers in these disciplines will gain many insights about architectural thought in this groundbreaking text

The Art of Building at the Dawn of Human Civilization Marta Tobolczyk,2020-09-18 This book offers a new unconventional outlook on architecture presenting some aspects of its evolution It demonstrates how prehistoric people developed the art of building when trying to solve increasingly complicated spatial and structural problems The book shows the activity of building to be in synergy with the parallel advancement of the human ability to think in symbolic and abstract terms The anthropological approach of this book will allow scientists to formulate the general principles and regularities of the development of architecture within a new field of studies named the Ontogenesis of Architecture

Architecture an Introduction to the History and Theory of the Art of Building W. R. Lethaby,2015-06-25 Excerpt from Architecture an Introduction to the History and Theory of the Art of Building Two arts have changed the surface of the world Agriculture and Architecture Perhaps the scale of architectural activity is not generally realized The art of building is concerned not only with single structures but with cities and hence with whole countries for Egypt Greece and Italy were groups of cities rather than geographical spaces empty of men and dwellings Architecture is the matrix of civilization In this small volume I wish while outlining the larger facts of the history of architecture especially to bring out its origins and to call attention to the great contributions which from time to time have been made to its powers by divers schools About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
