Theodore D. Goldfarb

The Pesticide Conspiracy:

The Pesticide Conspiracy Robert Van Den Bosch, 2023-09-01 Professor van den Bosch of the University of California was one of the developers of Integrated Pest Management the use of biological controls improved pest knowledge and observation and judicious application of chemicals only when absolutely necessary His research often suggested that less or no pesticides should be applied which made him the target of both open and clandestine attack from industry and government figures In protest he wrote this passionate account of what Ecology called the ultimate social disaster of evolving pesticide resistant insects the destruction of their natural predators and parasites emergent populations of new insect pests downstream water pollution atmospheric pollution the accidental killing of wildlife and people and the bankruptcies of indigenous and small farmers As a new Introduction to this edition recounts some lessening of dangerous overreliance on massive pesticide applications has been achieved since van den Bosch published this book in 1978 partly as a result of its influence But the structural problems he described remain The book has thus become a classic along with Rachel Carson's Silent Spring Professor van den Bosch of the University of California was one of the developers of Integrated Pest Management the use of biological controls improved pest knowledge and observation and judicious application of chemicals only when absolutely necessary Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, 1979-05 Nature's Matrix Ivette Perfecto, John H. Vandermeer, Angus Wright, 2009 Landscapes are frequently seen as fragments of natural habitat surrounded by a sea of agriculture But recent ecological theory shows that the nature of these fragments is not nearly as important for conservation as is the nature of the matrix of agriculture that surrounds them Local extinctions from conservation fragments are inevitable and must be balanced by migrations if massive extinction is to be avoided High migration rates only occur in what the authors refer to as high quality matrices which are created by alternative agroecological techniques as opposed to the industrial monocultural model of agriculture The authors argue that the only way to promote such high quality matrices is to work with rural social movements Their ideas are at odds with the major trends of some of the large conservation organizations that emphasize targeted land purchases of protected areas They argue that recent advances in ecological research make such a general approach anachronistic and call rather for solidarity with the small farmers around the world who are currently struggling to attain food sovereignty Nature's Matrix proposes a radically new approach to the conservation of biodiversity based on recent advances in the science of ecology plus political realities particularly in the world's tropical regions The Pesticide Paradox Ryan E. Galt, 2001 Insects, Experts, and the Insecticide Crisis John H. Perkins, 2012-12-06 Science and technology are cultural phenomena Expert knowledge is generated amid the conflicts of a society and in turn supplies fuel to fire yet further change and new clashes This essay on economic entomology is a case study on how cultural events and forces affected the creation of scientific and technical knowledge The time period emphasized is 1945 to 1980 My initial premises for selecting relevant data for the story were ultimately not of much use

Virtually all debates about insect control since 1945 have been centered around the environmental and health hazards associated with insecticides. My first but inadequate conclusion was that the center of interest lay between those who defended the chemicals and those who advocated the use of nonchemical control methods. With this formulation of the problem I was drawn to an analysis of how the chemical manufacturers had managed to dominate and even corrupt the work of entomological scientists, farmers, members of Congress and regulators in the USDA and EPA. My own contributions to a policy study at the National Academy of Sciences were based 1 on this premise. More recently Robert van den Bosch developed the 2 corruption theme in considerable detail.

Handbook of Natural Pesticides: Methods N. Bhushan Mandava, 2018-04-19. This handbook series includes several naturally occurring chemicals that exhibit biological activity. These chemicals are derived from plants, insects and several microorganisms. Volume I of this series covers the theory and practice of the strategies for pest control and methods for detection. Moreover it presents extensive tables that provide the information you need to select the most appropriate bioassay for a particular plant growth regulator or hormone. In addition to the chapters on bioassays, Volume I provides a solid introduction to the theory and practice of natural pesticide use including in depth discussions of integrated management systems for weed and pest control, the state of the art use of computers in pest management and allelochemicals as natural protection. Guidelines on toxicological testing and EPA regulation of natural pesticides are also detailed.

The Ecology of Agroecosystems John H. Vandermeer, 2009-12-29. Agroecology is the science of applying ecological concepts and principles to the design, development and management of sustainable agricultural systems. The Ecology of Agroecosystems highlights a collection of alternative agricultural methodologies and philosophies and provides an interdisciplinary approach that bridges the sociopolitical and historical context of agriculture. It includes the technical issues in a serious and ecological fashion and captures the complex merging of ecology, agriculture, politics and economics in both a historical and contemporary context. Readers will learn not only about the ethical and moral elements related to producing food of questionable quality while possibly impairing the environment but also about the soil chemistry involved.
