Current Solutions to Hydrogen Problems in Steels C. G. Interrante, G. M. Pressouyre, 1982 Gaseous Hydrogen

Embrittlement of Materials in Energy Technologies Richard P Gangloff, Brian P Somerday, 2012-01-16 Many modern energy systems are reliant on the production transportation storage and use of gaseous hydrogen. The safety durability performance and economic operation of these systems is challenged by operating cycle dependent degradation by hydrogen of otherwise high performance materials. This important two volume work provides a comprehensive and authoritative overview of the latest research into managing hydrogen embrittlement in energy technologies. Volume 1 is divided into three parts the first of which provides an overview of the hydrogen embrittlement problem in specific technologies including petrochemical refining automotive hydrogen tanks nuclear waste disposal and power systems and H2 storage and distribution facilities. Part two then examines modern methods of characterization and analysis of hydrogen damage and part three focuses on the hydrogen degradation of various alloy classes. With its distinguished editors and international team of expert contributors Volume 1 of Gaseous hydrogen embrittlement of materials in energy technologies is an invaluable reference tool for engineers designers materials scientists and solid mechanicians working with safety critical components fabricated from high performance materials required to operate in severe environments based on hydrogen. Impacted technologies include aerospace petrochemical refining gas transmission power generation and transportation. Summarises the wealth of recent research on understanding and dealing with the safety durability performance and economic operation of using gaseous hydrogen at high pressure. Reviews how hydrogen embrittlement affects particular sectors such as the petrochemicals automotive and nuclear industries. Discusses how hydrogen embrittlement can be characterised and its effects on particular alloy classes

Corrosion Problems and Solutions in Oil Refining and Petrochemical Industry

Alec Groysman, 2016-10-24 This book addresses corrosion problems and their solutions at facilities in the oil refining and petrochemical industry including cooling water and boiler feed water units. Further it describes and analyzes corrosion control actions corrosion monitoring and corrosion management. Corrosion problems are a perennial issue in the oil refining and petrochemical industry as they lead to a deterioration of the functional properties of metallic equipment and harm the environment both of which need to be protected for the sake of current and future generations. Accordingly this book examines and analyzes typical and atypical corrosion failure cases and their prevention at refineries and petrochemical facilities including problems with pipelines tanks furnaces distillation columns absorbers heat exchangers and pumps. In addition it describes naphthenic acid corrosion stress corrosion cracking hydrogen damages sulfidic corrosion microbiologically induced corrosion erosion corrosion and corrosion fatigue occurring at refinery units. At last fouling
