Something In The Water:

Something in the Water... Jule McBride, 2005-12-27 Go getter Ariel Anderson is back in Bliss West Virginia She's got to shoot a TV spot and undo her undeserved wild child reputation But there's something downright sexy happening in Bliss And inexplicably Ariel aches to be more naughty than nice Especially after colliding with Rex Houston the hottest CDC virus chasing cowboy this side of the mountains He's testing the local spring for a love bug dubbed Romeo that's reputed to cause sexual mayhem for seven straight days For the first time in sixty years Bliss is going buggy Romantic songs on the radio Restaurant breakfast specials for two The whole town is under some spell Now Rex and Ariel are testing some steamy waters of their own Maybe this myth was never meant to be debugged

Something in the Water Peter Scott, 2000-01-01 Maine lobster fisherman Amos Coombs knows that German U boats are hiding out along the coast by day and sinking American merchant vessels at night Until one terrifying day however he is unaware that the enemy is quite literally in his backyard or that the presence of a Nazi submarine is about to change his life and those of his fellow islanders forever More than just a war novel this excitingly original novel presents a vivid portrayal of a community and a way of life There's Something In The Water Ingrid R. G. Waldron, 2021-03-25T00:00:00Z In There's Something In The Water Ingrid R G Waldron examines the legacy of environmental racism and its health impacts in Indigenous and Black communities in Canada using Nova Scotia as a case study and the grassroots resistance activities by Indigenous and Black communities against the pollution and poisoning of their communities Using settler colonialism as the overarching theory Waldron unpacks how environmental racism operates as a mechanism of erasure enabled by the intersecting dynamics of white supremacy power state sanctioned racial violence neoliberalism and racial capitalism in white settler societies By and large the environmental justice narrative in Nova Scotia fails to make race explicit obscuring it within discussions on class and this type of strategic inadvertence mutes the specificity of Mi'kmaq and African Nova Scotian experiences with racism and environmental hazards in Nova Scotia By redefining the parameters of critique around the environmental justice narrative and movement in Nova Scotia and Canada Waldron opens a space for a more critical dialogue on how environmental racism manifests itself within this intersectional context Waldron also illustrates the ways in which the effects of environmental racism are compounded by other forms of oppression to further dehumanize and harm communities already dealing with pre existing vulnerabilities such as long standing social and economic inequality Finally Waldron documents the long history of struggle resistance and mobilizing in Indigenous and Black communities to address environmental racism
