Something In The Wind Politics After Chernobyl:

Something in the Wind Louis Mackay,Mark Thompson,1988    The International Politics of Nuclear Waste Andrew Blowers,David Lowry,Barry D. Solomon,1991-04-01 Looking at the politics of nuclear waste this book examines the subject from an international standpoint Other works by the author Andrew Blowers include The Limits of Power and Something in the Air and he has been co editor on books such as Nuclear Power in Crisis    Eco-nationalism Jane I. Dawson,1996 Examines the rise of the anti nuclear power movement in the former Soviet Union during the early perestroika period its unexpected successes in the late 1980s and its decline after 1991 This book argues that anti nuclear activism was a surrogate for nationalism and a means of demanding greater local self determination under the Soviet system    Politics Virginie Mamadouh,2017-05-15 Depending on the breadth or narrowness of the understanding of politics and the political politics in human geography is defined as either the operation of power in all social relations or the workings of power directed to or by the state This volume avoids the two extremes by acknowledging the transformation of approaches to the political in human geography over the past few decades but also by highlighting the continued importance of the more traditional state based conception of politics The selected articles are clustered around six themes new agendas in political geography state territoriality international relations and globalization internal territorial organisation and geographical scale social movements and electoral participation and identities and citizenship    Smokestack Diplomacy Robert G. Darst,2001-01-02 Many environmental problems cross national boundaries and can be addressed only through international cooperation In this book Robert Darst examines transnational efforts to promote environmental protection in the USSR and in five of its successor states Russia Ukraine and the Baltic republics of Estonia Latvia and Lithuania from the late 1960s to the present The core of the book is a comparative study of three key issues nuclear power safety transboundary air pollution and Baltic Sea pollution Although expectations were high that the end of the Cold War and the breakup of the Soviet Union would lead to increased East West environmental cooperation the opposite has been true Russia and the other successor states have generally agreed to address such problems only when paid to do so Darst finds that post Cold War environmental cooperation has been most successful when there is an overlap between the environmental and economic interests of the successor states and those of their Western neighbors and when the foundation for cooperation was laid during the Cold War period The book is based on extensive original field research including interviews with diplomats government officials scientists and environmental activists in the successor states and Western Europe Its findings underscore the importance of the domestic and international political context in which international environmental policy making occurs It also deepens our understanding of the opportunities and dangers of positive inducements as a tool of international environmental policy

Frames of Protest Hank Johnston,John A. Noakes,2005-07-05 Frames of Protest brings together important empirical research and theoretical essays by leading sociologists political scientists and media specialists that focus on social movement frames and framing practices Frames are new ways of understanding political and social relations that emphasize injustice and the need for change As such they are crucial for the development of social movements and protest Frames of Protest is the only book to focus exclusively on this major research perspective in social movement and protest studies Thirteen chapters encompass the major themes in the framing perspective to offer a state of the art review Three chapters present evidence for the determining influence of framing in social movement mobilization Next framing activities by the state and the mass media are analyzed Then two research reports examine the effect of political opportunities on framing in Poland under the Communists and in New York City's ethnic politics Several chapters by leading theorists present a lively debate about the relationship of ideologies to collective action frames The book closes with a hands on discussion about analyzing textual materials and interview transcripts to do frame analysis that lends itself to longitudinal and cross case comparisons

The Nuclear Present Grant Burns,1992 thorough and complete well written annotations recommended to libraries at all levels CHOICE An exceptionally thorough guide JOURNAL OF AMERICAN HISTORY The New Political Geography of Eastern Europe John O'Loughlin,Herman van der Wusten,1993-03-16 Compiled by two world renowned authorities on geopolitics it explores the geographical dimension of the Warsaw Pact breakup and the emerging Central European democracies Covers the social and political transformation of these areas looks at pioneering work on the electoral geography discusses sociopolitical uncertainties in an international context and delves into the pressures of nationalism economic and social chaos as well as inexperience on both the regional and geopolitical system

Socialism and the Limits of Liberalism Peter Osborne,1991 Anti-nuclear Movements Wolfgang Rüdig,1990 Rethinking Security Simon Dalby,1991

Understanding Socialist and Proletarian Internationalism Peter Waterman,1991 Nuclear Reactions John Corner,Kay Richardson,Natalie Fenton,1990 Few problems raise more conflicting views than the nuclear issue This book looks at how the issue has been handled on television the role of television in informing the public and the reactions of the viewers During the eighties nuclear energy became a major international issue The disasters at Three Mile Island and Chernobyl created global anxiety about its risks and a sensitivity to it among politicians and journalists

Beacham's Guide to Environmental Issues & Sources Walton Beacham,1993 Repertorio Mundial de Instituciones de Investigación Y de Formación Sobre la Paz Unesco. Social and Human Sciences Documentation Centre,1991 The Mass Media and Environmental Issues Anders Hansen,1993 The first in a new series this presents a synthesis of current thinking and research on the role of the mass media in the rise of the environment as a social and political issue It demonstrates the strengths of communications research in the analysis of social issues
