Something Short Of Paradise:

A Little Trickerie Rosanna Pike, 2024-08-01 THE INSTANT SUNDAY TIMES BESTSELLER Striking darkly funny and heartfelt Grabs you from the first page and doesn't let go Ferdia Lennon author of Glorious Exploits Crisp transportive uplifting I loved it Bonnie Garmus author of Lessons in Chemistry A bold funny and imaginative journey through Tudor England A real treat Joanna Quinn author of The Whalebone Theatre Born a vagabond Tibb Ingleby has never had a roof of her own Her mother has taught her that if you're not too bound by the Big Man's rules there are many ways a woman can find shelter in this world But now her ma is gone As she journeys through the fields and forests of medieval England Tibb discovers that there are people who will care for her as well as those who mean her harm And there are a great many others who are prepared to believe just about anything So when the opportunity presents itself to escape the shackles society has placed on them Tibb and her new friends conjure an audacious plan her greatest trickerie yet But before they know it their hoax takes on a life of its own drawing crowds and vengeful enemies to their door A tale of belief and superstition kinship and courage A Little Trickerie introduces a ragtag cast of characters and an unforgettable endearing and distinctly unangelic heroine Joyful and highly original Rosanna Pike absolutely nails Tibb's voice The Times Absolutely raucous and vividly alive India Knight Written with great panache A book that is unapologetically itself Lovable fun and emotionally juicy Guardian

Vesela and the Vervum World Mostyn Heilmannovsky, 2019-12-27 Vesela is a girl with unique abilities These abilities are desired by the vampires but also by two dark orders the Order of the Blood and the Order of the Shadow These two orders not only want to enslave the human world but also the Vervum world inhabited by the Vervum vampires who are interestingly connected to Vesela Will the dark orders succeed in enslaving Vesela and the Vervum World

Cats of Any Color Gene Lees, 1995-12-21 It was none other than Louis Armstrong who said These people who make the restrictions they don't know nothing about music It's no crime for cats of any color to get together and blow You can't know what it means to be black in the United States in any field Dizzy Gillespie once said but Gillespie vigorously objected to the proposition that only black people could play jazz If you accept that premise well then what you're saying is that maybe black people can only play jazz And black people like anyone else can be anything they want to be In Cats of Any Color Gene Lees the acclaimed author of three previous collections of essays on jazz and popular music takes a long overdue look at the shocking pervasiveness of racism in jazz's past and present both the white racism that long ghettoized the music and generations of talented black musicians and what Lees maintains is an increasingly virulent reverse racism aimed at white jazz musicians In candid interviews living jazz legends critics and composers step forward and share their thoughts on how racism has affected their lives Dave Brubeck part Modoc Indian discusses native Americans contribution to jazz and the deeply ingrained racism that for a time made it all but impossible for jazz groups with black and white players to book tours and television appearances Horace Silver looks back on his long career including the first time he ever heard jazz played live Blacks were not not allowed into the pavilion in Connecticut where Jimmie Lunceford's band was performing so the ten year old Silver listened and watched through the wooden slats surrounding the pavilion And oh man That was it Silver recalls Red Rodney recalls his early days with Charlie Bird Parker and pianist and composer Cedar Walton tells of the time Duke Ellington played at the army base at Ford Dix and allowed the young enlisted Walton to sit in Tracing the jazz world's shifting attitude towards race many of the stories Lees tells are inspiring Brubeck cancelling 23 out of 25 concert dates in the South rather than replace black bass player Eugene Wright or Silver insisting that while he strives to provide his fellow black musicians opportunities I just want the best musicians I can get I don't give a damn if they're pink or polka dot Others are profoundly disturbing Lees first encounter with Oscar Peterson after a Canadian barber flatly refused to cut Peterson's hair or Wynton Marsalis on television claiming that blacks have been held back for so many years because the music business is controlled by people who read the Torah and stuff From the old shantytowns of Louisville to the streets of South Central L A to the up to the minute controversies surrounding Marsalis's jazz program at Lincoln Center and the Jazz Masters awards given by the NEA Cats of Any Color confronts racism head on At its heart is a passionate plea to recognize jazz not as the sole property of any one group but as an art form celebrating the human spirit not just for the protection of individual musicians but for the preservation of the music itself
