Bulletin - William Graham Sumner Club William Graham Sumner Club,1943 Economists and Higher Learning in the Nineteenth Century William J. Barber,1993-01-01 Many economists who struggled to establish a secure place for their discipline in American universities in the nineteenth century made significant contributions to reshaping American academic life in general Yet they were often at war among themselves as they sought to define the mission and methods of economics in an era of social and intellectual ferment This volume represents the contribution of American scholars to a multinational research project on the institutionalization of political economy in European Japanese and North American universities It includes case studies of divergent experiences of fourteen institutions that figured prominently in the molding of American culture William Mary The University of Virginia South Carolina College Brown Harvard Yale Columbia Johns Hopkins The University of Pennsylvania The University of Chicago The University of California Stanford The University of Wisconsin and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology These are supplemented in an essay by A W Coats on the turbulent early decades of the American Economic Association In this new introduction Barber takes note of the fact that in a somewhat different context and with a modified rhetoric the same issues present themselves today as they did one hundred years earlier And this in turn introduces some troubling concerns about just what sort of science economics is and was The volume as a whole can be read as reflections on the troubled status of the discipline of economics as it now exists in American university and research contexts It provides fresh perspectives on the development of social science and economic thought and on the history of higher education in the United States As such it will be of very great interest to professional economists students of higher education and those for whom the life of American ideas holds a central place Hatch & Sumner's Textbook of Paediatric Anaesthesia Third edition Robert Bingham,Adrian Lloyd
