Look South to the Polar Star Holger Cahill,1947     Icarus Still Flies Nigel Pearce,2011-06-01 Description This is a collection of poetry and studies which have their origins and nature in my love of writing and ideas This devotion to writing and reading are essential to my being and ironically contributed to my entry into the psychiatric system in 1974 just before my 14 birthday but have sustained throughout Books and ideas were both an early love and haven in a troubled family Aged

12 I met an English teacher who introduced me to new poetry and then a radical lecturer and some of his students we debated many concepts and writing generally the relationship between writing and ideas The increasing involvement with the crowd at the university made the fault lines at home particularly sharp I lived in a bubble of revolutionaries a few writers a couple of artists and many people who had simply renounced a conventional way of life it suited me I went to live in an avant garde squat in London and was introduced to experimental art such as happenings Poetry radical ideas and everyday life simply merged into a dream Within a year began a period of involvement with psychiatry which has continued to the present I will never stopped reading writing and discussing books and ideas with people About the Author He was born in 1959 Home was troubled a troubled place to be exacerbated by profound philosophical disagreements Consequently he ran away to London age 13 where he lived in the counter culture Became ill placed was then placed in the in the Care of the local council Fostered to a radical academic couple although that didn t survive long and he went back underground eventually being arrested in Guildford At 14 he went to live in Hollymoor Hospital in Birmingham this would be age 14 16 He was fairly frequently restrained and given injections of chlorpromazine Lived for a short time in the Birmingham Settlement but became ill again and was moved to a specialist manic depressive unit where he first had ECT age 16 Substance abuse continued with regularly admissions to Central Hospital with psychotic episodes and would sometimes go into semi catatonic states for periods At 20 he was diagnosed with schizophrenia Some of the admissions were for periods of around a year At the age 25 had specialist help with substance abuse problems and he has been clean 25 years and dry 13 years In 1984 he spent a year in Central Hospital two years in a Pre discharge Unit in the community and then eight years in group homes but he now lives in his own flat His body became toxic with medication in 2003 and was seriously ill physically During the whole period there have been always been some nurses etc who have made his life difficult because of his firmly held leftist ideological perspective However there were left wing nurses and social workers who particularly in the 1970 and early 1980 s behaved in an exception way He gained a BA Hons at the Open University in 1999 Certificate in English Studies at Warwick University in 2007 and is working for a Diploma in Creative Writing and Literature at the Open University at present Enjoys working in an Oxfam Bookshop once a week and runs a small outsider magazine NASA Tech Briefs ,1992-09 The Juvenile instructor and companion Young people,1882 The Toronto Star Cookbook Jim White,1983 Beyond the Bonds of Eden Nigel Pearce,2017-12-03 Nigel s life was saved by creative writing and academia He had been a runaway to the counterculture in London as a young teenager with all the accompanying chaos He was later taken into County Council Child Care and then transferred to the psychiatric system His life spiralled out of control until he began to write seriously and study He has gained a BA in Humanities with Creative Writing and is now half way through a Masters Degree in English both at The Open University He lives with mental health problems This collection will give you a flavour of that life and those of others Jelly-fish, Star-fish and Sea-urchins George John Romanes,1885 Among the most beautiful as well as the most common of the marine animals which are to be met with upon our coasts are the jelly fish and the starfish Scarcely any one is so devoid of the instincts either of the artist or of the naturalist as not to have watched these animals with blended emotions of the aesthetic and the scientific feeling the beauty while wondering at the organization How many of us who live for most of the year in the fog and dust of large towns enjoy with the greater zest our summer s holiday at the seaside And in the memories of most of us is there not associated with the picture of breaking waves and sea birds floating indifferently in the blue sky or on the water still more blue the thoughts of many a ramble among the weedy rocks and living pools where for the time being we all become naturalists and where those who least know what they are likely to find in their search are most likely to approach the keen happiness of childhood If so the image of the red sea stars bespangling a mile of shining sand or decorating the darkness of a thousand grottoes must be joined with the image no less vivid of those crystal globes pulsating with life and gleaming with all the colours of the rainbow which are perhaps the most strange and certainly in my estimation the most delicately lovely creatures in the world Introduction PsycINFO Database Record c 2010 APA all rights reserved
