The purpose of this book, which has been sponsored by Professor Maritain, is to bring together in one volume those passages in his writing that are both representative and expressive of his social and political philosophy. The editors, Joseph W. Evans and Leo R. Ward, in their foreword give an extract from Professor Maritain's diary in which he says, "There began for me then a period of reflection devoted to moral and political philosophy in which I tried to work out the character of authentically Christian politics and to establish, in the light of a philosophy of history and of culture, the true significance of democratic inspiration and the nature of the new humanism for which we are waiting".

"Maritain", continue the editors, "has progressively fashioned a social and political thought that has come to grips with Communism, Fascism, and other forms of totalitarianism, and with present-day forms and remnants of nineteenth-century individualism. His arguments have such an incisiveness about them, his insights and intuitions such a freshness and originality, that it is a real intellectual experience to read any of his works".

Professor Maritain's writings on these themes have appeared in so many books that it will be a great convenience to readers, new and old, to have their quintessence within the covers of a single volume.
