The Philosophy Of Character:

Character as Moral Fiction Mark Alfano, 2013-02-14 This provocative contribution to ethics and epistemology argues that virtue attributions are self fulfilling prophecies    From Personality to Virtue Alberto Masala, Jonathan Mark Webber, 2016 The idea that people have persisting character traits that explain their behaviour is woven throughout the fabric of our culture. These philosophical essays clarify this idea of character analyse its relation with the findings of experimental psychology and draw out the implications of this for education and criminal punishment. They bring together a range of issues in contemporary philosophy including the nature of agency the modelling of behavioural cognition the ethical implications of personal necessity moral responsibility for implicit bias the prospects for character education and the nature of rightful criminal punishment. The essays emphasise that character is inherently dynamic and emphasise the close integration of character with the individual's social context    The Philosophy of Character Edgar Pierce, 1924

Character and Moral Psychology Christian B. Miller, 2014-01-09 Philosophers and psychologists have been hard at work trying to unlock the mysteries of our characters. Unfortunately their answers have been all over the map. According to one position every single person has all of the moral virtues such as modesty and compassion although to varying degrees. Yet according to another position no one has any character traits at all since they are simply illusions and do not exist. Hence not one person is honest or compassionate or courageous. And between these extremes there are plenty of intermediate views. Christian B. Miller argues that not one of these leading positions accurately reflects what most of us are like today. He explores the implications of the Mixed Trait framework a theory of moral character developed in his previous book Moral Character: An Empirical Theory. Mixed traits have both morally positive aspects hence they are not vices along with morally negative aspects hence they are not virtues. Miller engages with the other leading positions on the empirical nature of character situationism the CAPS model the Big Five model and the local trait model. He goes on to apply the Mixed Trait framework to several important topics in ethics especially the development of an error theory about judgments of character and the challenge faced by virtue ethics from the widespread lack of virtue    A Study in the Philosophy of Personality Hilda Diana Oakeley, 1928    Philosophy of Character Edgar Pierce, 1942    The Philosophy of Character, Being a Lecture Upon Its Origin, Development, Etc Edwin WRENFORD, 1867    Philosophical Foundations for Moral Education and Character Development George F. McLean, Frederick Edward Ellrod, 1992

The Character Gap Christian Miller, 2017-11-01 We like to think of ourselves our friends and our families as decent people. We may not be saints but we are still honest relatively kind and mostly trustworthy. Miller argues here that we are badly mistaken in thinking this. Hundreds of recent studies in psychology tell a different story that we all have serious character flaws that prevent us from being as good as we think we are and that we do not even recognize that these flaws exist. But neither are most of us cruel or dishonest. Instead Miller argues we are a mixed bag. On the one hand most of us in a group of bystanders will do nothing as someone cries out for help in an emergency Yet it is also true that there will be many times when we will selflessly come to the aid of a complete stranger and resist the urge to lie cheat or steal even if we could get away with it Much depends on cues in our social environment Miller uses this recent psychological literature to explain what the notion of character really means today and how we can use this new understanding to develop a character better in sync with the kind of people we want to be

The Philosophy of Character; Being a Lecture ... Edwin Wrenford (Curate of the Parish Church, Blackburn.),1867

Moral Character Christian B. Miller,2013-05-09 Most of us are not virtuous people but neither are we vicious Instead our characters are decidedly mixed and much more complex than we might have thought Christian Miller presents a new account of moral character based on Mixed Character Traits He explores how most of us are less than virtuous people but also morally better than the vicious
