The Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal,1995

The Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal,Meral Mehmet,2006

Quite often it is the small things that a carer does or doesn't do that have the greatest impact on a child. This is a guide to have on hand to dip into and refer to whenever questions about both big and seemingly small things arise. It not only helps carers to answer the never-ending questions of whether each of the many decisions that they must make are good enough for my child. It also helps carers to involve the child in those decisions and indeed to make those decisions themselves whenever possible and supports carers by letting them know at all such times what standards others will expect of them. Most sections of the text have photocopiable games, checklists, forms and pictures.

The Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal,Meral Mehmet,2012. Acclaimed across three previous editions, this handbook covers British practice aspects of foster care for care providers of children up to 11 years old, including children with special needs. Primarily for foster carers but also useful in residential care, the book is packed with detailed guidance about looking after children being looked after, being a foster carer and living in a fostering household. It is designed to encourage carer providers to work in partnership with the children and their families, enable children to return to their families when appropriate, enable carer providers to meet the full range of a child's needs, explain the fostering roles and responsibilities. Although there are differences in detail, the governments of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland all make similar requirements of carers. The Foster Carer's Handbook will help all carer providers achieve the expectations placed on them and assist them to maintain standards. This fourth edition underlines and encourages the use of relevant government standards and gives examples of good practice. A comprehensive guide that can be called on when just about anything arises, the book has been developed for carer providers to read themselves along with the children they are caring for, as well as their own children, to help carers make appropriate decisions and answer the many questions children may ask about their time being looked after. For use as a talking tool, including activities to help children understand the present, face the future with confidence and in time make their own decisions about their life for use in supervision and training.

Teenagers in Foster Care John Christopher Coleman,2016

The Foster Carer's Handbook on Education SARAH. FURLAND ALIX (EILEEN. HILL, NICOLA.),Eileen

Fursland,Nicola Hill,2020-01-30. Some children in foster care struggle to get on with school, their ability to cope with its demands affected by the impact of experiences of neglect, trauma and loss. They need understanding and extra support. Foster carers are most likely to know whether a child is settling into a new primary school or if they are coping with the transition to secondary education. School staff need foster carers' guidance about how best to help children feel safe and understood in the classroom. This handbook aims to support foster carers in that task and so help children to have the best possible experience of education right up to leaving care.

Managing Difficult Behaviour Clare Pallett,2015-10-30. Caring for looked after children can be an immensely stressful and complex task. Managing Difficult Behaviour is a unique handbook that aims to provide foster carers with new skills to help them improve a child's behaviour. Full of useful tips, case examples and exercises, this handbook addresses key areas including how to be good at giving praise, giving positive attention, establishing boundaries, using rewards, helping children learn from their actions, giving instructions, using time out. Based on the Fostering Changes Programme set up in 1999. The Foster Carer's Handbook On Health Hannah Smith, Nikki Shepherd, 2020-11-04. Health care is important for all children and young people and for their parents or carers. But children frequently enter the care system with a worse level of health than others, in part due to the impact of early abuse or neglect. Foster carers have a vital role to play in supporting the health of the children in their care. But how best can they do this? This handbook will support foster carers to navigate through the health service to ensure that children's needs are met and to be a role model for their health choices. The Teenager's Foster Carer's Handbook Ann Wheal, Meral Mehmet, 2012. Acclaimed across three previous editions, this handbook based on research in the UK can help anyone looking after young people aged 12 years and over, including those with special needs, to provide care that equals or surpasses what is required. Although developed for foster care providers who are working with young people, the book will also be useful for residential carers and for anyone helping prepare young people for adult life. It is packed with detailed guidance about looking after young people, being a foster care provider and living in a fostering household or care home. It aims to explain how carers can work with and care for the young people in their care, enable young people to return to their families when appropriate, enable carers to meet the full range of a young person's needs, explain the caring roles and responsibilities. Although there are differences in detail, the governments of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland all make similar requirements of carers. The book shows carer providers how to achieve the expectations placed on them and maintain standards. It underlines and encourages the use of relevant government standards and gives examples of good practice. As a comprehensive guide that can be called on when just about anything arises, it has been developed to help carers make appropriate decisions and it answers the many questions young people may ask about their time being looked after. For use as a talking tool, it includes photocopiable support activities to help young people understand the present, face the future with confidence and in time become independent adults and move on. The previous editions of this book were published under different titles: Answers for Carers 1994, 1999 and Young People in Foster and Residential Care 2003. The Education Handbook for Foster Carers and Adopters Anne Peake, 2017. This unique resource will provide guidance and help to support your foster child in school. It includes suggestions for building the all-important relationship between child, teacher and school. This handbook provides information, ideas and answers to frequently asked questions such as settling in before school starts, repeating a year in school, a suggested amount of screen time, behavior problems in school and more. The often complex language used in education as well as social care is explained. Comments and insights of other parents, carers and children are also collected here. This book was written for foster carers and adopters by an educational psychologist working with Children's Services in

Oxfordshire who is also a member of Chartered Psychologists and a Fellow of the British Psychological Society Subject Social Work Foster Care Adoption Psychology Childhood Psychology      Answers Ann Wheal, Ann Buchanan, 1994 A handbook designed to be used actively to encourage discussion with young people and challenge problem behaviour Areas covered include being looked after accommodation carers responsibilities practical social skills becoming independent legal terms and issues education and qualifications      The Foster Carer's Handbook On Parenting Teenagers Henrietta Bond, 2019-10-31 This handbook aims to support foster carers as they identify the unique needs of the young person in their care It includes easy to understand information advice and ideas on the development of the teenage brain identity belonging and contact keeping young people safe promoting health and well being mental health issues managing behaviour supporting young people's education preparation for leaving care and support for foster carers      A Foster Carers Guide Keeley Stephenson, 2018-10-11 An insightful guide provided by a young girl who has lived in foster care all her life and has a message for all professionals that work with children      Managing Difficult Behaviour, 2015      The Carer's Handbook Tasmania. Rapshaw, 2002-04-11 BECOME A FOSTER PARENT A mom dad house and dog do not make a home Everyday there are children who experience this sad fact when they are removed from their home due to neglect or abuse Not every foster child has a foster family In some regions foster children must wait for long periods of time in shelter care More than one half million children in the United States rely on foster families to provide a safe and loving home Many wonderful and caring families would like to open their homes to these children but are clueless about how to get started There are many misconceptions myths and misunderstandings surrounding foster care These concerns must be shattered and waiting children must be nurtured This book details for prospective foster parents the requirements qualifications and screening process Step by step foster parents are guided through the crucial decisions and directed to the vital information they will need to foster parent effectively Foster Parent Handbook provides an indispensable guide for navigating through the foster care system It is designed for use by prospective foster parents those who are currently foster parents and professionals providing foster care services      The Parents' Handbook New York. Department of Social Services, 1977

Understanding Looked After Children Suzanne McCall, Lloyd Hamilton, 2007 Understanding Looked After Children is an accessible guide to understanding the mental health needs of children in foster care and the role of foster carers and support networks in helping these children. The authors provide foster carers with an insight into the psychological issues experienced by children in the care system and the impact of these issues on the foster family. Chapters cover cultural, social and legal structures associated with foster care and both the relevant child psychology theory and examples drawn from real life situations. The authors give advice on how to address common psychological issues in collaboration with multi agency professionals as well as how to access statutory services. They also explain the possible impact of assessments on foster children and the causes and management of foster carers' own feelings of frustration, anger or disappointment with social and mental health services or the placement itself. Chapters are complemented by case studies and the book includes a helpful glossary to common terminology. Understanding Looked After Children is essential reading for registered foster carers and those considering fostering as well as adoptive parents and a useful reference for trainee and experienced practitioners in the care system including social workers, psychologists, counsellors, teachers and others looking after vulnerable children.

Advocating for Children in Foster and Kinship Care Mitchell Rosenwald, Beth N Riley, 2010-01-29 This book is the first to provide strategies for effective advocacy and placement within the foster care and kinship care systems. It also takes a rare look at the dynamics of the foster and kinship relationship not just among children and the agency workers and service providers who intervene on their behalf but also between children and those who take in and care for them as permanency develops. Drawing on their experience interacting with and writing about the institution of foster care, Mitchell Rosenwald and Beth N Riley have composed a unique text that helps practitioners, foster parents and relative caregivers realize successful transitions for youth, especially considering the traumas these children may suffer both before and after placement. Advocating for a child's best interests must begin early and remain consistent throughout assignment and adjustment. For practitioners, Rosenwald and Riley emphasize the best techniques for assessing a family's capabilities and for guiding families through the challenges of foster care. Part one details the steps potential foster parents and kinship caregivers must take with the assistance of practitioners to prepare themselves for placement. Part two describes tactics for successful advocacy within the court system, social service agencies, schools and the medical and mental health establishments. Part three describes how to lobby for change at the agency and legislative levels as well as within a given community. The authors illustrate recommendations through real life scenarios and devote an entire chapter to brokering positive partnerships among practitioners, families and other teams working to protect and transition children.
