Werthman, 1967 The Structure of European History Norman F. Cantor, Michael S. Werthman, 1970 Early Modern Europe: 1450-1650 Norman F. Cantor, Michael S. Werthman, 1967 States and Strangers Nevzat Soguk, 1999 Looks at the role of refugees in international relations. Refugees may flee their country but can they escape the confining defining logic of all the voices that speak for them. As refugees multiply in our troubled world more and more scholars studies and pundits focus on their plight. Most of these analyses says Nevzat Soguk start from a model that shares the assumptions manifested in traditional definitions of citizen nation and state. Within this hierarchy he argues a refugee has no place to go. States and Strangers questions this paradigm particularly its vision of the territoriality of life. A radical retheorization of the refugee from a Foucauldian perspective the book views the international refugee regime not as a simple tertiary response arising from the practice of states regarding refugee problems but as itself an aspect of the regimentation of statecraft. The attendant discourse negates the multiplicity of refugee events and experience by assigning the refugee an identity someone without the citizen's grounding within a territorial space the state renders him voiceless and deprives him of representation and protection. States and Strangers asks how this happens and how it can be avoided. Using historical archival research and interpretive strategies drawn from a genealogical approach Soguk considers the role of the refugee in the emergence and maintenance of the sovereign territorial state from the late seventeenth century to contemporary times.
