Document Type: Meeting The Proposed Policy	2. Systemic racism Existing inequalities in the labor market are reflections of inequalities in human capital accumulation. Thus the low earnings among immigrants after the immigration transition reflect their lower-level investments in acquiring education by human capital and the disadvantage after the period of immigration. It is not surprising that social capital is important. 3. Human capital Human capital accumulation is crucial for immigrants' earnings. The importance of human capital accumulation is clearly shown in the results of the regression analysis. The results show that the more human capital immigrants have, the higher their earnings are. This is true for both the first and second generations of immigrants. The results also show that the more human capital immigrants have, the more they are able to integrate into the labor market. 4.
