Mercury in the Biogeochemical Cycle Marc Marcotte,Roger Schetagne,Normand Therien,Claude Langlois,Alain Tremblay,2012-12-06 Nowadays major environmental issues are the object of large public debates despite the fact that scientific knowledge is often insufficient to draw unequivocal conclusions Such is the case in the ongoing debate regarding the specific contributions of anthropogenic greenhouse gas emissions and of natural climate changes to global warming At least 10 to 20 years of additional observations will be required before we will be able to conclude with certainty on this subject In the mean time and as directed by their immediate interests people will continue to promote contradictory opinions The media are in part responsible for perpetuating such debates in that they convey indiscriminately the opinion of highly credible scientists as that of dogmatic researchers the latter unfortunately too often expressing working hypotheses as established facts Naturally in a similarly misinformed manner pressure groups tend to support the researcher whose opinions most closely represent either their particular ideological battles or their economic interests and hence in their own way add further to the confusion and obscurity of the debate Only a few years ago mercury Hg contamination in hydroelectric reservoirs was the object of such media and social biases At the time analytical data used to support the discourse were themselves uncertain and numerous hypotheses often times fanciful were proposed and hastily delivered to the public     GRANDE RIVIERE HYDROELECTRIC COMPLEX - ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGE.
