Global Perspectives on Critical Architecture Gevork

Hartoonian,2016-03-03 Judging from the debates taking place in both education and practice it appears that architecture is deeply in crisis New design and production techniques together with the globalization of capital and even skilled labour have reduced architecture to a commodified object its aesthetic qualities tapping into the current pervasive desire for the spectacular These developments have changed the architect s role in the design and production processes of architecture Moreover critical architectural theories including those of Breton Heidegger and Benjamin which explored the concepts of technology modernism labour and capital and how technology informed the cultural along with later theories from the 1960s which focused more on the architect s theorization of his her own design strategies seem increasingly irrelevant In an age of digital reproduction and commodification these theoretical approaches need to be reassessed Bringing together essays and interviews from leading scholars such as Kenneth Frampton Peggy Deamer Bernard Tschumi Donald Kunze and Marco Biraghi this volume investigates and critically addresses various dimensions of the present crisis of architecture It poses questions such as Is architecture a conservative cultural product servicing a given producer consumer system Should architecture s affiliative ties with capitalism be subjected to a measure of criticism that can be expanded to the entirety of the cultural realm Is architecture s infusion into the cultural the reason for the visibility of architecture today What room does the city leave for architecture beyond the present delirium of spectacle Should the thematic of various New Left criticisms of capitalism be taken as the premise of architectural criticism Or alternatively putting the notion of criticality aside is it enough to confine criticism to the production of insightful and pleasurable texts Surrealism and Architecture Thomas Mical,2005 Twenty one essays examining the relationship of surrealist thought to architectural theory and practice

Architecture's Theory Catherine Ingraham,2023-04-18 A collection of illuminating essays exploring what theory makes of architecture and what architecture makes of theory in philosophical and materialized contexts From poststructuralism and deconstruction to current theories of technology and nature critical theory has long been closely aligned with architecture In turn architecture as a thinking profession materializes theory in the form of built work that always carries symbolic loads In this collection of essays Catherine Ingraham studies the complex connectivity between architecture s discipline and practice and theories of philosophy art literature history and politics She argues that there can be no architecture without theory Whether considering architecture s relationship to biomodernity or exploring the ways in which contemporary artists and designers engage in figural play Ingraham offers provocative interpretations that enhance our understanding of both critical theory and architectural practice today Along the way she engages with a wide range of contemporary theorists including Giorgio Agamben Judith Butler Jacques Derrida Graham Harman and Timothy Morton considering buildings around the world including the Palace of Culture in Warsaw the Viceroy s House complex in New Delhi Mack Scogin and Merrill Elam s
