Hans-Peter Blossfeld

The Labor Sector:

The Labor Sector Neil W. Chamberlain,Donald E. Cullen,1971 Young Workers, Globalization and the Labor Market Hans-Peter Blossfeld,2008-11-28 Underpinned by the fact that the globalization process and the subsequent increased level of market uncertainty have paved the way for employment flexibility in modern societies this book examines the labor market chances of young adults in the US and in ten European societies over the past three decades As young adults represent a very vulnerable labor market group flexible and insecure employment tends to be pronounced especially at labor market entry The contributors therefore explore which groups of young adults are especially affected by increasing employment insecurities The Labor Sector Neil W. Chamberlain,Donald E. Cullen,David Lewin,1980 Reskilling the Workforce in the Labor Market: The Country Cases Mecik, Oytun,2024-03-05 In the dynamic model of today s workforce marked by technological upheavals changing consumer preferences and global economic shifts a pressing challenge looms large the imperative for continuous adaptation through reskilling As the demand for specialized skills intensifies with technological advancements and the nature of work undergoes profound transformations individuals employers and societies grapple with the need to stay competitive The book Reskilling the Workforce in the Labor Market The Country Cases emerges as a beacon of solutions in this complex terrain addressing the critical facets of reskilling that are pivotal for thriving in the future job market The workforce is confronted with multifaceted challenges ranging from the disruptive impact of automation to the complexity of evolving job roles in a service oriented economy Individuals face the risk of being left behind if they do not acquire the necessary skills and education while employers contend with productivity gaps and high turnover due to a mismatch between job demands and employee capabilities Moreover societal issues such as skill gaps and rising unemployment call for a concerted effort to establish a culture of lifelong learning The high cost and limited availability of training programs along with time constraints and resistance to change further compound the challenges individuals and organizations face in navigating this reskilling imperative The Tunisian Labor Market in an Era of Transition Ragui Assaad,Mongi Boughzala,2018-11-09 The Tunisian Labor Market in an Era of Transition is a comprehensive examination of the central labor market issues facing this key Arab country It includes contributions on the size structure and evolution of the labor force the characteristics of labor demand employment policies and regulations and unemployment Further chapters explore the wage formation process gender differences in the labor market the returns to education child labor and schooling and the trends and patterns of international migration from Tunisia The Tunisian Labor Market in an Era of Transition is an essential reference on how youth employment gender disparities and informality contributed to political and social unrest in North African societies and on the effect of migration flows from North Africa to Europe New Developments in the Labor Market Katharine G. Abraham,Robert B. McKersie,1990 These original contributions report on new developments taking place in today s labor market and on the role of public policy in shaping that process Work-place Jamie Peck,1996-04-06

Challenging the prevailing idea that labor markets are governed by universal economic processes this significant work argues instead that labor markets develop in tandem with social and political institutions and thus function in locally specific ways Focusing on the complex social processes that lie at the heart of the labor market the author offers a provocative new perspective and proposes new ways of conducting research in the area

Change at Home, in the Labor Market, and on the Job Solomon W. Polacheck,Konstantinos Tatsiramos,2020-11-23

How do changes at home in the labor market and on the job affect worker well being This volume of Research in Labor Economics contains eight original and insightful articles answering this question Seven deal with demographic and labor market change and one deals with wage differences essentially at a point in time The Changing American Countryside Emery N. Castle,1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns As a result the real rural America remains much misunderstood neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike In response Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands These authors examine the role of non metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty industry the environment education family social problems ethnicity race religion gender government public policy and regional diversity The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture It is in fact highly diverse complex and interdependent with urban America and the international market place Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one fourth of our population and ninety seven per cent of our land area is rural Together these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life

Los Angeles-Long Beach Labor Market Bulletin ,1980 Labor Markets and Unemployment Edward D. Kalachek,1973 USA Study of the labour market and the causes of unemployment with particular reference to the effects of technological change and increased educational opportunity examines the labour supply in respect of employment policy private sector investment return on higher education the contribution of education to productivity in plant training labour mobility management attitudes towards employment structural unemployment etc References and statistical tables The Formation of a Labour Market in Russia Simon Clarke,1999 Clarke sociology U of Warwick England draws on data from statistical surveys and case studies collected within the framework of a large scale collaborative research program by development agencies on the restructuring of labor and employment in Russia He reviews the historical context and tackles theoretical issues before providing a detailed analysis of the development of the labor market through the interaction of strategies by employers and employees Two more volumes are expected to emerge from the study on the segmentation of the Russian labor market and on household survival strategies presumably during those long months or years when workers are not being paid
