The Politics of Transparency in Modern American Fiction Paula Martín Salván, Sascha Pöhlmann, 2024 A much needed contribution to and critique of debates in the newly emerging field of transparency studies from the perspective of American literary studies In the twenty first century transparency has become an ambiguous buzzword both in the public and the private realms e g Wikileaks and the Snowden affair social media This volume takes its cue from the emerging field of transparency studies recent scholarly work in sociology political theory and cultural studies that identifies a hegemonic rhetoric of transparency in public and political life While scholars in this new field routinely gesture toward literature as the realm where secrecy may be productive they rarely engage with literature directly and literary studies itself remains notably absent from their debates This collection of essays seeks to redress that state of affairs by focusing on literary texts written in an American cultural tradition steeped in the interplay between transparency and exposure fear and secrecy security and surveillance and information and disinformation The essays draw on authors ranging from Whitman James and Ellison to Pynchon Morrison and Eggers to argue that American literature complicates theoretical assumptions about transparency made in other disciplines They question the field's strong theoretical emphasis on present day technopolitical practices and discourses as the location of hegemonic discourse on transparency and instead historicize such phenomena and extend them to discursive spheres that have so far been neglected such as issues of sexuality and race Edited by Paula Martín Salván and Sascha Pöhlmann Contributors Tomasz Basiuk Jesús Blanco Hidalgo Cristina Chevere San Julia Faisst Michel Feith Julián Jimenez Heffernan Tiina Kakkela Juan López de Luque Umberto Rossi Jelena Sesnić Toon Staes Julia Straub Alice Sundman

Gender, Surveillance, and Literature in the Romantic Period Lucy E. Thompson, 2021-12-30 Romantic era literature offers a key message surveillance in all its forms was experienced distinctly and differently by women than men Gender Surveillance and Literature in the Romantic Period examines how familiar and neglected texts internalise and interrogate the ways in which targeted asymmetric and often isolating surveillance made women increasingly and uncomfortably visible in a way that still resonates today The book combines the insights of modern surveillance studies with Romantic scholarship It provides readers with a new context in which to understand Romantic period texts and looks critically at emerging paradigms of surveillance directed at marginal groups as well as resistance to such monitoring Works by writers such as Jane Austen Charlotte Smith and Joanna Baillie as well as Lord Byron and Thomas De Quincey give a new perspective on the age that produced the Panopticon

This book is designed to appeal to a wide readership and is aimed at students and scholars of surveillance literature Romanticism and gender politics as well as those interested in important strands of women's experience not only for the additional layers they reveal about the Romantic era but also for their relevance to current debates around asymmetries of power within gendered surveillance

Beauchamp's Career George Meredith, 1876 The Corset and Underwear Review, 1936 The Fortnightly Review, 1875 The girls' handy book, by L. and A.B. Beard Lina Beard, 1887 Clinical Lectures on the Diseases of Women and Children Gunning S. Bedford, 1872 Every Saturday, 1872 The Fortnightly, 1875 Good words for the young, ed. by N. Macleod Norman Macleod, 1872 The New Education, 1893 Descriptions of physiognomies in English fiction from realism to modernism Mirjam Marits, 2003-11-28

Diploma Thesis from the year 2003 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works grade very good University of Graz Institute for Anglistics language English abstract 1 Introduction Descriptions of physiognomies in English literature and their significance It is a fascinating phenomenon that whenever we meet another person for the first time we unconsciously and immediately judge him or her by merely looking at the person's face Although we may call ourselves the most tolerant people free of prejudices we cannot help thinking a person likeable or not right away by the first visual impression we get without ever having talked to him or her Even though we know that a correspondence of physiognomic and inner traits has never been convincingly or scientifically proved it is unquestionable that most of us are impressed and influenced by visual data we receive from our fellow human beings' faces In the course of history and thus of literature people have repeatedly tried to come to terms with this phenomenon and to find explanations as well as definitions that may help to face and deal with physiognomy in everyday life Apparently it has always been and still is people's wish to read in other faces so as to facilitate contact and to know how to judge characters That this desire is not new can be seen by the fact that even Pseudo Aristotle set up very questionable highly racist and sexist rules according to which one could categorise faces and thus know what kind of character is hidden behind the surface Today nobody relies on his writings anymore which categorised people among other factors by establishing an analogy between animals and human beings According to the author those who had certain traits that were seen as resembling certain animals were considered to have the respective animal's inner traits as well as in the following examples Die Menschen mit dicken Lippen wobei die obere weiter vorsteht als die untere sind dumm siehe die Esel und Affen Die eine kleine Stirn haben sind ungebildet siehe die Schweine

1 In English literature the question of whether there is an indexical or arbitrary connection between inner and outer traits has been approached in many different ways which cannot be analysed in detail here In a large number of older texts descriptive passages containing physiognomic hints were not included which points to a certain disinterest in this field of explanations as well as in visual details in general 1 Pseudo Aristoteles 300v Chr 1999 Physiognomica bers u kommentiert
