Transactions of the Yorkshire Dialect Society Yorkshire Dialect Society,1898 List of members in each number    Britons and their Battlefields Ian Atherton,2024-08-19 While much attention has been paid to the commemoration of conflict in the twentieth century this book is the first to consider conflict memory in the long term arguing that modern practices were not created out of the mud of the trenches but evolved from much longer practices From the fourteenth century to the present day this work analyses the changing commemoration and memories of British battlefields at home and overseas from Bannockburn 1314 to Bosworth 1485 to Basra 2003 9 Across these seven centuries there has been a series of recurring post battle rituals that have shaped and continue to shape memories of conflict Three distinct but overlapping periods of memory can be delineated In the later Middle Ages battlefields were consecrated by the burial of the fallen and often by the erection of a battlefield cross or chapel or chantry to pray for the dead The second phase began with the Protestant Reformation in the 1530s when pilgrimage and prayers for the dead were abolished and battlefield chantries were dissolved and many battlefield crosses were demolished Memories shifted from the dead to the living especially the bodies of surviving veterans who commemorated the conflict by their wounds and from soil and stone to print and ink The third phase began in the eighteenth century when antiquaries and others established new monuments on past battlefields Monuments to survivors and the dead were established on contemporary battlefields such as Waterloo once again hailed as sacred ground hallowed by bloodshed fit destinations for a pilgrimage Not just officers but ordinary soldiers began to be memorialized by name on the battlefield culminating in the cult of the names of the dead enshrined by the creation of the War Graves Commission in 1917 and the idea that battlefields should be preserved unchanged as seen in modern heritage management Drawing on a wide variety of literary and historical sources and taking a uniquely longue dur e approach the book explores and links memory making practices from across the period to reconsider the ways in which battlefields are commemorated and re commemorated In so doing it makes a unique contribution to a wide range of historiographical fields British history since the fourteenth century memory studies heritage studies landscape history conflict archaeology and military history Warner's Dictionary of Authors Ancient and Modern Charles Dudley Warner, 1910 At Home and Abroad V.S.

Pritchett, 2011-10-28 Admirers of The Spanish Temper Marching Spain and his wonderfully evocative books on London Dublin and New York will need no reminding that V S Pritchett is one of the very great travel writers of our time possessed of an astonishingly accurate eye and a marvellous ability to conjure up the essence of a place and of the people who live there Written for the most part in the 1950s and 1960s the essays brought together in At Home and Abroad cover South and North America Spain Ireland Portugal London Greece the Pyrenees Germany the English countryside and above all the Mediterranean first published in book form in 1990 the year of Sir Victor's ninetieth birthday they are a delight in themselves and a timely reminder of or introduction to this most subtle and perceptive of writers Dictionary of Saints John J.
