The Language Of News Media:

The Language of News Media Allan Bell, 1991-01-01 Written by a linguist who is himself a journalist this is a uniquely informed account of the language of the news media      The Language of Newspapers Martin Conboy, 2010-02-18 This book charts the connections between the language of journalism in England and its social impact on audiences and social and political debates from the first emergence of periodical publications in the seventeenth century to the present day It extends work done on the language of the media to include an historical perspective adding to wider contemporary debates about the social impact of the media It draws upon the field of historical pragmatics while retaining a concentration on the development of a particular form of media language the newspaper and its role in refracting and contributing to social developments Dialogue is created between sociolinguistics and journalism studies It is ideally suited to advanced students in these areas and in linguistics and media studies in general      Introducing the Language of the News M. Grazia Busa, 2013-08-15 Introducing the Language of the News is a comprehensive introduction to the language of news reporting Assuming no prior knowledge of linguistics the book provides an accessible analysis of the processes that produce news language and discusses how different linguistic choices promote different interpretations of news texts Key features include comprehensive coverage of both print and online news including news design and layout story structure the role of headlines and leads style grammar and vocabulary a range of contemporary examples in the international press from the 2012 Olympics to political events in China and the Iraq War chapter summaries activities sample analyses and commentaries enabling students to undertake their own analyses of news texts a companion website with extra activities further readings and web links Written by an experienced researcher and teacher this book is essential reading for students studying English language and linguistics media and communication studies and journalism      The Language of Newspapers Danuta Reah, 2002 From the ideological bias of the press to the role of headlines in newspaper articles and ways in which newspapers relate to their audience the book provides a comprehensive analysis of newspaper language      The Language of the News Martin Conboy, 2013-12-16 The Language of the News investigates and critiques the conventions of language used in newspapers and provides students with a clear introduction to critical linguistics as a tool for analysis Using contemporary examples from UK USA and Australian newspapers this book deals with key themes of representation from gender and national identity to race and looks at how language is used to construct audiences to persuade and even to parody It examines debates in the newspapers themselves about the nature of language including commentary on political correctness the sensitive use of language and irony as a journalistic weapon Featuring chapter openings and summaries activities and a wealth of examples from contemporary news coverage including examples from television and radio The Language of the News broadens the perceptions of the use of language in the news media and is essential reading for students of media and communication journalism and English language and linguistics      News Media Translation Federico Zanettin, 2021-11-11

The translation of information is of central concern to scholars and researchers in the humanities and social sciences Based on interdisciplinary research this book provides a wide ranging accessible introduction to research in translation practices processes and products in the news media present and past Language in the News Roger Fowler,2013-10-08

Newspaper coverage of world events is presented as the unbiased recording of hard facts In an incisive study of both the quality and the popular press Roger Fowler challenges this perception arguing that news is a practice a product of the social and political world on which it reports Writing from the perspective of critical linguistics Fowler examines the crucial role of language in mediating reality Starting with a general account of news values and the processes of selection and transformation which go to make up the news Fowler goes on to consider newspaper representations of gender power authority and law and order He discusses stereotyping terms of abuse and endearment the editorial voice and the formation of consensus Fowler s analysis takes in some of the major news stories of the Thatcher decade the American bombing of Libya in 1986 the salmonella in eggs affair the problems of the National Health Service and the controversy of youth and contraception The Language of Journalism Angela Smith,Michael Higgins,2020-07-09 The Language of Journalism 2nd edition provides lively and accessible tools to understand and analyse the language of journalism The authors explain how language develops across divergent media platforms old and new by looking at the differences across various forms of journalism including broadcast magazine newspaper sports radio and online and citizen As well as introducing the reader to the principles and methods of discourse analysis and how it can be applied to media the book addresses the dynamic interplay between the emerging linguistic forms of social media and the journalistic field With this new edition the authors draw upon a range of international examples including from the USA India Australia China and the UK They focus on an exploration of how social media is incorporated into the journalistic output of print media with a particular focus on clickbait This edition also focuses on the global ambitions of online newspapers such as the Daily Mail and the Guardian which are UK based but have Australian and US subsections News Talk Colleen Cotter,2010-02-11 Written by a former news reporter and editor News Talk gives us an insider s view of the media showing how journalists select and construct their news stories Colleen Cotter goes behind the scenes revealing how language is chosen and shaped by news staff into the stories we read and hear Tracing news stories from start to finish she shows how the actions of journalists and editors and the limitations of news writing formulas may distort a story that was prepared with the most determined effort to be fair and accurate Using insights from both linguistics and journalism News Talk is a remarkable picture of a hidden world and its working practices on both sides of the Atlantic It will interest those involved in language study media and communication studies and those who want to understand how media shape our language and our view of the world The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Media Esperança Bielsa,2021-12-24 The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Media provides the first comprehensive account of the role of translation in the media which has become a thriving area of research in recent decades It offers theoretical and methodological perspectives on translation and media in the digital age as well as analyses of a wide diversity of media contexts and translation forms Divided into four parts with an editor introduction the 33 chapters are written by leading international experts and provide a critical survey of each area with suggestions for further reading The Handbook aims to showcase innovative approaches and developments bridging the gap between currently separate disciplinary subfields and pointing to potential synergies and broad research topics and issues With a broad ranging critical and interdisciplinary perspective this Handbook is an indispensable resource for all students and researchers of translation studies audiovisual translation journalism studies film studies and media studies The Open Access version of Chapter 1 available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND license

Public Health Communication Challenges to Minority and Indigenous Communities Aiseng, Kealeboga, Fadipe, Israel A., 2024-04-30 Language has emerged as both a powerful bridge and a formidable barrier in the realm of public health communication The ongoing COVID 19 pandemic has highlighted a significant challenge faced by minority and indigenous communities particularly in regions of Sub Saharan Africa It s a challenge deeply rooted in the historical use of colonial languages English French and Spanish to disseminate critical health information For many this has translated into a linguistic exclusion depriving them of access to essential resources and a voice in matters of national interest This issue transcends mere communication it touches upon the fundamental rights of individuals to participate in their own healthcare decisions and influences their sense of belonging and citizenship Public Health Communication Challenges to Minority and Indigenous Communities proposes a solution with a transformative potential This groundbreaking edited volume invites scholars from diverse fields to contribute their research shedding light on the linguistic dimensions of public health communication during the COVID 19 era By investigating the impact of language on various aspects of society from medical information to education this book seeks to synthesize the wealth of sociolinguistic research into an accessible framework It s an invitation to explore the role of language in shaping our perceptions of citizenship belonging and empowerment

The United Nations and the News Media Sándor Szalai, Margaret Croke, 1972

The Languages of COVID-19 Piotr Blumczynski, Steven Wilson, 2022-11-30 This collection advocates languages based translational research to be part of the partnerships and collaborations required to make sense of and respond to COVID 19 as one of the major global challenges of our time Bringing together scholars and practitioners from a wide range of disciplines this volume is bound by a common thread stressing the importance of linguistic sensitivity intercultural knowledge and translational mediation in the frontline response to COVID 19 Featuring contributors from around the world and reflecting on the language used to frame COVID 19 in diverse cultural contexts of the Global North and Global South the book proposes that paying attention to the transmission of ideas ideologies narratives and history through processes of translation results in a broadening of social cultural and medical understandings of COVID 19 Spanning nearly 20 signed and spoken languages the volume argues that only in going beyond an Anglophone perspective can we better understand the cultural social and political facets of the pandemic and in turn produce a comprehensive efficient global response to disease management This book will be of interest to scholars in translation and interpreting studies modern languages applied linguistics cultural studies Deaf Studies intercultural communication and medical humanities
