Yan Yi is one of the best known classic Chinese novels in the English speaking world The earliest English translation came out in 1820 while a range of further translations have been produced over the past two hundred years How do the different versions relate to each other This volume examines the intertextual relations between the English translations of San Guo Yan Yi Intertextuality refers to the interdependence of texts in relation to one another Focusing on the perspectives of impact quotation parallels and transformation the author compares a range of the translated versions including two full length translations and over twenty excerpted renderings and partial adaptations since the 1820s She discovers that excerpted translations are selected to fit the translators own narrations and are adapted to many genres such as poetry drama fairytales and textbooks Moreover the original text translated texts and other related English works are interconnected in one large network for which intertextuality offers an ideal basis for research Students and scholars of Chinese literature and translation studies will benefit from this book The Language of ICT Tim Shortis, 2001 This accessible satellite textbook in the Routledge Intertext explores the nature of the electronic word and presents the new types of text in which it is found

Intertextual Dynamics within the Literary Group of Joyce, Lewis, Pound and Eliot D. Brown, 1990-10-26 The book examines key texts by the writers James Joyce Wyndham Lewis Ezra Pound and T S Eliot as moves within a shared group game that of creating a new literature for the new age It maps a great deal of intertextual reference allusion and influence and suggests a psychoanalytically informed hypothesis that certain literature can be constituted a species of interpersonal groupwork It demonstrates how the core grouping within literary modernism developed an experimental discourse through mutual rivalry and sharing And it describes different group roles contributions and changes of emphasis within an overall project stretching from 1914 into the 1950s Shakespearean Intertextuality Stephen Lynch, 1998-11-19 In reshaping Lodge s Rosalynde into As You Like It Shakespeare not only undermines the Petrarchan and pastoral traditions of the romance but also refutes the implicit gender structures upon which such Petrarchanisms are based In refashioning The True Chronicle Historie of King Leir into the tragedy of King Lear Shakespeare does not simply reject the explicit Christian setting and happy ending of Leir but engages and responds to the highly Reformational and Calvinistic assumptions that shape and inform the source play In rewriting Greene s Pandosto into The Winter s Tale Shakespeare not only adapts the plot and characterization of the source but consistently counters and refutes the rhetorical and linguistic structures of Greene s romance And in Pericles Shakespeare adapts the Appolinus story from Gower s Confessio Amantis but also responds to suggestions in the source text about the authority of the role of the author The Intertextual Dimension of Discourse

Chall,1996 Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,2008 John O'London's ,1959 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1998 Influence and Intertextuality in Literary History Jay Clayton,Eric Rothstein,1991 This important collection explores and clarifies two of the most contested ideas in literary theory today influence and intertextuality The study of influence tends to center on major authors and canonical works identifying prior documents as sources or contexts for a given author Intertextuality on the other hand is a concept unconcerned with authors as individuals it treats all texts as part of a network of discourse that includes culture history and social practices as well as other literary works In thirteen essays drawing on the entire spectrum of English and American literary history this volume considers the relationship between these two terms their rivalry their kinship their range of uses Debates about these two concepts have been crucial to the new historicism and the resurgence of interest in literary history The essays in this volume employ a refreshing array of examples from that history poetry of the Renaissance and the twentieth century novels of the eighteenth through twentieth centuries Old English texts and postmodernist productions that have served as recurrent intertexts for contemporary theory The contributors treat such currently vital questions as the role of the author canon formation gender causality and the social dimension of texts They illuminate old assumptions and new ideas about agency that lie behind notions of influence and they examine models of an anonymous textual field that lie behind notions of intertextuality The volume takes much of its character from its own intertextual origin as a group project of the English faculty at the University of Wisconsin Madison Though diverse in their academic interests concerns and experience the contributors participated in an ongoing intellectual exchange that is a model of how new scholarship can arise from dialogue
