The Axiomatic Method in Phonology Tadeusz Batóć,2018-10-03 First published in 1967 The problems of theoretical phonology are among the most controversial in linguistics This monograph is a step towards an adequate logical reconstruction of phonological theories and is mainly concerned with Z S Harris structuralist theory one of the principal phonological theories of the present day Topics covered in the work include almost all essential problems of theoretical phonology The author establishes a set of basic concepts which define almost all other concepts of phonology and gives an axiomatic characterisation of these concepts The notion of a unit length segment is analysed and defined and a precise formulation of the principles of distribution is given The author offers a formal analysis of the notion of a phoneme and finally formulates and discusses fundamental hypotheses of phonology

Prospects for a New Structuralism

Hans-Heinrich Lieb,1992-01-01 This volume which has partly grown from a Round Table at the XIVth International Congress of Linguists argues for a large amount of underlying unity in outlook among different frameworks in present day linguistics the contemporary Prague School the Noematic approach the UNITYP model Integrational Linguistics Natural Morphology much recent work in phonology and Popperian Interactionism as applied in particular to historical linguistics Section I discusses philosophical issues such as realism vs cognitivism Section II characterizes current frameworks and Section III deals with individual linguistic areas like phonology Leading representatives of the various approaches are shown to agree in subscribing to most if not all of nine Principles of New Structuralism that combine ontological realism with non cognitivist mentalism These principles define a position that is structuralist in a novel sense and appears to be partly represented also in approaches such as Katzian Platonism and Searle's intentionalism it should be compatible with frameworks like GPSG There are definite historical connections with European structuralism The position is incompatible with current cognitivism of the mechanism type but otherwise bridges traditional oppositions such as the dichotomy of generative vs non generative frameworks
