Filming Death Outi Hakola, 2024-04-30 End of life documentaries have proliferated in the 21st century as various organisations institutions journalists independent filmmakers and members of the public have wanted to give death and dying a face in the public discussion Each documentary film that concerns individuals with a terminal illness in hospice care or desiring assisted death redefines cultural expectations of what dying is and feels like These films invite their viewers to witness intimate and emotional moments of dying people including moments on their deathbed Filming Death explores these documentaries as ethical spaces asking the viewers to learn how to engage with end of life through the experiences of others and to find ways to alleviate potential death anxiety The book argues that the diversity of documentary films resists simplified moral divisions between good and bad death and instead embellishes diverse realities where dying takes many forms ranging from death acceptance to raging to death
