Involving Children and Young People in Health and Social Care Research Jennie Fleming, Thilo Boeck, 2012-05-23

Led by both children's rights perspectives and methodological arguments there is an increasing emphasis on children and young people's participation in health and social care research by researchers policy makers and funding bodies with many now considering the active involvement of children and young people a requirement There is little exploration of how to address and overcome the many challenges arising from their participation however Divided into five parts this practical book begins by considering what research with young people is and why we should do it before leading the reader into how to undertake it The book then provides practical examples of action and finishes with reflections about the whole process Bringing together a variety of experienced researchers from a wide range of backgrounds in health and social care and including young people the chapters provide insight for practical action as well as critical and theoretical reflection Involving Children and Young People in Health and Social Care Research includes issues on Understanding the reasons and processes for involving children and young people in research Making sure that involvement is meaningful and not merely tokenistic Developing research methods that are commensurate with different ages and abilities Ensuring adequate training and preparation for children young people and adults to make involvement meaningful Power and relationships between young people researchers and adult researchers Sustaining young people's interest and motivation Addressing ethical issues that arise throughout the research journey Committed to partnership and participation throughout the entire process of the active involvement of children and young people in health and social care research this text provides invaluable insights and is a resource for all those conducting research in and with children and young people

Directorate-General for Education and Culture, 2004 Youth Participation in Community Action Rosalind Cassidy, 1967 Youth Participatory Evaluation: A Field in the Making Kim Sabo, 2003-08-12 Youth participatory evaluation YPE combines action research and participatory evaluation's commitment to stakeholder empowerment with the new philosophy of positive youth development which emphasizes young people as community assets and resources rather than as a source of social problems. This volume illustrates a broad range of approaches YPE advocates have used to enrich evaluation practice and strength programs for youth by involving young people as researchers and evaluators. Kim Sabo begins by arguing that youth led evaluation by its very nature promotes youth development because these evaluations constitute Vygotskian zones of proximal development situations where developmental learning through performance can take place. Les Voakes uses a case study of a conference organized by Town Youth Participation Strategies to illustrate how involving youth in the planning operational decision making and evaluation of programs that directly affect them can benefit both the young participants and the programs themselves. Jonathan K London, Kristen Zimmerman and Nancy Erbstein provide case studies of evaluation methods that link community and youth development practices. Genevieve Lau, Nancy H Netherland and Mary Haywood show how YPE can be used as a training process for youth workers one that enables them to better understand the needs and desires of youth and therefore design better programs for them. Roger A Hart and Jasmine Rajbhandary examine Nepal's children's clubs and Save the Children's YPE inspired evaluation of these clubs to show how children can be encouraged to develop their own programs and largely evaluate them by themselves. Bonny L Gildin describes the All Stars Talent Show Network an innovative program that unites youth program funders and adult volunteers in program development and evaluation. Finally David Fetterman sums up and reflects on the lessons learned by the contributors to this volume.
