Teaching Right And Wrong Moral Education In The Balance:

Teaching Right and Wrong Richard Smith, 1997 This volume tackles the key issues in moral education in a style accessible to professional educators and general readers It takes into account the real contexts of people's lives broadens the terms of discussion of morality and draws conclusions to guide the practice of moral education Education, Philosophy and the Ethical Environment Graham Haydon, 2006-09-27 How much can we reasonably expect from education This book written by a philosopher of education casts new light on this question by seeing values education not as a separate activity within schools but as an aspect of education that both reflects the surrounding climate of values and can help to change it Graham Haydon argues that all of us whether as teachers parents students or citizens share in a responsibility for the quality of that ethical environment He argues that we must ensure that what happens in schools will enable young people to appreciate the diversity of our ethical environment help them find their way through its complexities contribute to developing a climate of values that is desirable for all This book shows that values education is too demanding to be left to parents and too important to be entrusted to government initiatives For teachers engaged in values education this book brings a fresh perspective to what they are doing within a realistic view of their responsibilities For students of education it shows that practical issues can be illuminated by insights from philosophy

A Theory of Moral Education Michael Hand, 2017-11-14 Children must be taught morality They must be taught to recognise the authority of moral standards and to understand what makes them authoritative But there's a problem the content and justification of morality are matters of reasonable disagreement among reasonable people This makes it hard to see how educators can secure children's commitment to moral standards without indoctrinating them In A Theory of Moral Education Michael Hand tackles this problem head on He sets out to show that moral education can and should be fully rational It is true that many moral standards and justificatory theories are controversial and educators have an obligation to teach these nondirectively with the aim of enabling children to form their own considered views But reasonable moral disagreement does not go all the way down some basic moral standards are robustly justified and these should be taught directly with the aim of bringing children to recognise and understand their authority This is an original and important contribution to the philosophy of moral education which lays a new theoretical foundation for the urgent practical task of teaching right from wrong Liberalism, Education and Schooling T.H. McLaughlin, 2017-03-27 A tribute collection of essays edited by author's colleagues and friends

Citizenship and Education in Liberal-Democratic Societies Kevin McDonough, Walter Feinberg, 2003-08-28 The essays in this volume address the educational issues which arise when national sub national and supra national identities compete How can we determine the limits of parental educational rights when the concern of liberalism to protect and promote children's autonomy conflicts with the desire to maintain communal integrity Given the advances made by the forces of globalization can the liberal democratic state morally justify its traditional purpose of forging a cohesive national identity Or has increasing globalization rendered this educational aim obsolete and morally corrupt Should liberal education instead seek to foster a sense of global citizenship even if doing so would suppress patriotic identification In addressing these and many other questions the volume examines the theoretical and practical issues at stake between nationalists multiculturalists and cosmopolitans in the field of education The fifteen essays plus an introductory essay by the editors provide a genuine productive dialogue between political and legal philosophers and educational theorists Education and Practice Joseph Dunne, Pádraig Hogan, 2004-08-06 This volume explores the distinctiveness of teaching and learning as a human undertaking and the nature and scope of the philosophy of education An investigation of the distinctiveness of teaching and learning as a human undertaking Provides fresh thinking on the nature and scope of the philosophy of education Draws on the original insights of an international group of experts in philosophy and education Includes an interview on education with Alasdair MacIntyre together with searching investigations of his views by other contributors Improving Teaching and Learning in the Humanities Martin Ashley, 2012-10-12 Focuses on religious education history geography and cross curricular planning in the primary school It includes discussion of the purpose of education and how the humanities fit with this purpose with particular reference to the 1998 Education Act and 1994 National Curriculum Review The book deals with the themes of time place values communication responsibilities and decision making These link the chapters and are fully complemented with case studies For each concept there are suggestions for practical classroom activities The reader will find the book invaluable in integrating the subjects across the National Curriculum How Children Become Moral Selves Josephine Russell, 2007 This book examines moral responsiveness and thinking in a mixed gender class of primary school children and offers a theoretical perspective on children's ability to think together about morality in a community of enquiry and on related issues of pedagogy It tracks development in children's moral awareness looking at gains and losses from middle to late childhood and focuses on cognitive skills notions of moral rectitude and interpersonal relationships and friendship The study demonstrates how through participation in a community of enquiry such as Thinking Time Philosophy with Children children sit in a circle engaging in dialogue with the teacher as facilitator children become more thoughtful and develop respect and responsiveness as well as other traits of character that are central to democratic citizenship The author analyses children's thinking in response to a wide range of content on issues of justice freedom and responsibility rights and duties inclusiveness and friendship Gender differences are also examined With the increasing emphasis on education for citizenship in the school curriculum comes an awareness that children's voice and agency need to be respected and promoted Social Personal and Health Education Values Education and Education for Citizenship are becoming more critical in an environment where there is a sense of crisis and concern about the fabric of democratic society In presenting a new paradigm research with rather than on children entering into their life world which their teacher shares the author demonstrates the potential of children to reflect in a concerned way on issues that concern them and society as a whole
