- Ensure you have had a conversation with the class teacher or school that you are inheriting your pupils from. This can be really helpful to highlight specific needs, identify those who need interventions and also share other information about the children or their families that may have an impact on their school life.
- Have high expectations of your class from the start of the year. Set out clear rules and systems from day one so that children know how to behave in the classroom. Write a class contract together, get each child to sign it and display it in your classroom.
- Starting year 3 can feel overwhelming for many children, particularly if they have moved from an infant to a junior school, so prepare for a few tears in the first week or two. Parents will be worried if they see their child entering school each day in tears, so letting them know that their child is fine once they are in the classroom will help reassure them.
- If you have any particularly anxious children, giving them a job to do once they enter the classroom such as collecting binning bins or handing out books may distract them from their worries.

Primary Languages: Effective Learning and Teaching Cynthia Martin, 2008-10-16 Primary languages are to be an entitlement for all pupils in KS2 from 2010. There is therefore a need to ensure that trainee primary teachers are equipped with the required skills knowledge and understanding to contribute to this process. This book supports specialists and also non specialist trainees with an interest in MFL who may need to deliver languages across the curriculum providing them with a clear understanding of the methodology and helping them to develop linguistic competence and confidence How To Improve Your School Jean Rudduck, Julia Flutter, 2004-01-01 This fascinating book focuses on those who are most affected by changes in education policy and systems the pupils. It draws on empirical evidence from a number of research projects and distils this into a compelling account of contemporary schooling from the pupils perspective. Jean Rudduck calls for a shift in the way we currently view young people at school and sets out a case for radically rethinking aspects of school organization, relationships and practice. Her research confirms that we need to see pupils differently to re assess their capabilities and reflect on what they are capable of being and doing Quality Research in Literacy and Science Education Mack C.

Shelley, Larry D. Yore, Brian B. Hand, 2008-12-30 Statistical models attempt to describe and quantify relationships between variables. In the models presented in this chapter there is a response variable sometimes called dependent variable and at least one predictor variable sometimes called independent or explanatory variable. When investigating a possible cause and effect type of relationship the response variable is the putative effect and the predictors are the hypothesized causes. Typically there is a main predictor variable of interest other predictors in the model are called covariates. Unknown covariates or other independent variables not controlled in an experiment or analysis can affect the dependent or outcome variable and mislead the conclusions made from the inquiry. Bock Velleman given the model  $p$  is the probability that a relationship is seen by mere chance. The smaller the  $p$  value the more confident we can be that the pattern seen in the data is not random. In the type of models examined here the  $R$  measures the proportion of the variation in the response variable that is explained by the predictors specified in the model. If  $R$  is close to 1 then almost all the variation in the response variable has been explained. This measure is also known as the multiple correlation coefficient. Statistical studies can be grouped into two types experimental and observational OECD Reviews of School Resources: Austria 2016 Collectif, 2016-06-09

The effective use of school resources is a policy priority across OECD countries. The OECD Reviews of School Resources explore how resources can be governed, distributed, utilised and managed to improve the quality, equity and efficiency of school education. The series considers four types of resources: financial resources such as public funding of individual schools; human resources such as teachers, school leaders and education administrators; physical resources such as location, buildings and equipment; and other resources such as learning time. This series offers timely policy advice to both governments and the education community. It includes both country reports and thematic studies Financing Quality Education for All
