A. Rabie,2001-07-29 This book describes the development of human societies over time and identifies the major forces of change that guide history and influence its course The book argues that the course of history has been driven not by leaders states ideas or war but rather by four societal processes whose actions reactions and interactions have governed the nature and pace of historical change These processes are the socio cultural political economic and infomedia processes Three major conceptions of world history the cyclical linear and chaotic have tried to describe the course of history and explain the dynamics of change This book reviews these conceptions and concludes that each one of them is only partially able to provide an understanding of the historical dynamics of change The book incorporates these conceptions into one theory the locomotive theory of history that provides a comprehensive explanation of the movement and dynamics of change throughout history The locomotive theory explains why certain nations have made more progress than others why some people are getting richer while others remain poor and why democracy has succeeded in some countries and failed in others The multiplicity of issues that the book covers makes its analysis and conclusions of particular interest to all people engaged in politics economics socioeconomic development and globalization    Making History Jock Phillips,2019-06-20 Men no longer whisper Revolution they shout it and they no longer carry banners but throw bricks Letter home from Harvard 1970 Jock Phillips grew up in post war Christchurch where history meant Ancient Greece and home was England Over the last 50 years through the Maori
