The Making Of Water Lane In Search Of Form And Meaning:

The Making of Water Lane John Passfield, 2005-04-01 Freedom's Fire Fighters is a business parable. The reader should discover the underlying messages in this fiction drama about missions, goals, planning, teamwork, communication, commitment, defect prevention, and culture. The author challenges each reader to identify the character in the imaginary company that they are currently playing in the real world and relate the events in the story to events in their own lives. At the speed of thought, the author places the reader inside an imaginary company named Freedom in an imaginary world ruled by an artificial intelligence brain and robots. The artificial intelligence brain is programmed to assure that no humans can ever be in any position of power. This electronic dictator places no value on life. More than ninety nine percent of all people hate it. Freedom manufactures parts for the government and provides high risk entertainment events for the citizens. Freedom is plagued with fires that threaten its survival. A consultant claims that its fire fighters are out of control. Some top executives accuse Freedom's president of sending mixed signals. An internal war erupts.

Inside the Wright Brothers John Passfield, 2006-11-16 This novel presents the Wright Brothers as idealists who build a dream out of the nuts and bolts of their everyday reality. There is a hard core of steel in the Wrights that however compassionate, polite, accommodating, and modest they appear to be to other people is the straight arrow that allows them to see their life's work clearly to make every decision and action move towards the achievement of their goal and to seldom make false judgments or false gestures that would cause them to deviate from their true course. The assurance that guides the brothers is that quality in creative people that allows them to work towards their life's goal no matter who or what encourages or discourages them advances them or retards them, promotes them or disparages them. Familiarity with the Wright Brothers story has made the invention of the world's first airplane seem to have a fairy tale ambiance which is divorced from the sweat and anxiety of everyday life. This assumption of an effortless invention process is actually a hold over from the initial response to their accomplishment by the people of the Wright Brothers own time. While suitably impressed with the achievement of the Wright Brothers, the people of the early Century remained unaware of the complex process that the Wright Brothers had actually gone through in order to produce such amazing results. The lack of appreciation of the complexity of the invention process is a result of the pronouncements of aviation experts of the time who failed to appreciate the magnitude of the Wright accomplishment for two reasons: an inability to imagine the number and complexity of the challenges that the Wrights had found solutions to and a desire to limit the Wrights' legal hold over their inventions in light of what promised to be a great financial future for the new innovation. In effect, while the public of the early Century marveled at the invention of the airplane and gave full credit to the Wright Brothers, many aviation experts assumed that the Wright Brothers' contribution to the invention process had involved nothing more complicated than a little tinkering with the ideas of those who were better qualified by education and by academic eminence to invent the airplane.

Lane John Passfield, 2005-04 The operating environment is always moving to higher levels of complexity The answer to complexity is simplicity Many companies fail to improve because they are in conflict with the operating environment Their leaders have long discontinued any program or process of self development and they become what is termed past based This puts their organization within the past based paradigms of their leaders in conflict with the operating environment In short the organization becomes stagnant and enters a phase of decline Is there a formula that management can use to move the organization to a higher level Definitely there is and through this book it will be shared with you The author's underlying principle has always been that leaders have the duty above all to learn from others He discovered the importance of this while coaching college level football A coach after all is a student of the game and successful coaches must either continue learning growing and achieving or abdicate their mission as coaches A LEADER LIKE A COACH MUST BE SOMEONE TO HIS PEOPLE RATHER THAN DO FOR THEM No matter how bad the game gets the coach cannot step onto the field and play the game for his players he must remain on the sideline Coaches must be skilled at posting results their expertise must extend to three areas They must know what they want to achieve They must be able to communicate clearly what they want to achieve They must be able to turn what they want to achieve into reality He believes that it is through people that performance of any kind good or bad is posted Coaches seek out the blue chip athletes and develop them Therefore he asks should an organization do any less Read what some leaders had to say The Formula will help you define the competitive position of the leadership in your organization and help you find the answer to a critical question are your leaders past based or future based Gary Sasser President CEO Averitt Express Whether in sports or business good competition brings out the best in people This book presents a great game plan for either as well as life in general Wayne Spain COO Averitt Express The title of this book has been carefully chosen by the author If any of us think that moving an LTL Carrier to elite performance does not include the elements of The Formula then we are badly mistaken Ward Trucking Corp 103.5 Operating Ratio in 1989 92.0 Operating Ratio in 2002 The Formula works Dave Ward President Ward Trucking Corporation If you want to improve the performance of your company this is the book The Formula saved us Dennis Britt President Service Transport Inc    English Mechanic and Mirror of Science ,1871    Engineering ,1876    The Engineer ,1863    Non Ferrous Alert ,1986    The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance ,1888    Scientific American ,1894
