The Making Of Ireland Landscapes In Earth History:

Landscape and History since 1500 Ian D. Whyte, 2004-03-03 Landscape and History explores a complex relationship over the past five centuries. The book is international and interdisciplinary in scope drawing on material from social economic and cultural history as well as from geography archaeology cultural geography planning and landscape history. In recent years as the author points out there has been increasing interest in and concern for many aspects of landscape within British European and wider contexts. This has included the study of the history development and changes in our perception of landscape as well as research into the links between past landscapes and political ideologies economic and social structures cartography art and literature. There is also considerable concern at present with the need to evaluate and classify historic landscapes and to develop policies for their conservation and management in relation to their scenic heritage and recreational value. This is manifest not only in the designation of particularly valued areas with enhanced protection from planning developments such as national parks and world heritage sites but in the countryside more generally. Further Ian D. Whyte argues changes in European Union policies relating to agriculture with a greater concern for the protection and sustainable management of rural landscapes are likely to be of major importance in relation to the themes of continuity and change in the landscapes of Britain and Europe.

GeoHibernica Paul Lyle, 2025-08-27 GeoHibernica explores how Ireland's diverse geological foundations have shaped its people culture and heritage over millennia. From ancient megaliths to modern artistic interpretations the book examines the deep connections between landscape and identity offering a scholarly yet personal perspective on Ireland's evolving relationship with its natural environment.

The Making of Ireland Michael Williams, D. A. T. Harper, 2003 Ireland contains some of the most impressive and unspoilt scenery in western Europe. From the conical white quartzite mountains of Donegal in the north to the ragged clutching fingers of the Skellig Rocks in the south the constant changes of light and shade alter these vistas moment by moment. This country was forged on the anvil of time in a way which reflects the constantly changing patterns and configurations in the history of the planet.

Exploring the History and Heritage of Irish Landscapes Patrick J. Duffy, 2007 This book highlights the principal themes and elements in the making of the landscape and the sources which can assist historians and historical geographers in studying and understanding Irish landscape history. Major and local sources relating to the natural environment cultural landscapes and the built environment are explored. The book also looks at representations of landscapes in literature painting and other artistic sources which can provide insights into the nature of real and imagined worlds of the past. The ultimate source which features prominently throughout this study is the landscape itself on which generations before us have inscribed the marks of their presence in fields farms houses villages towns roads lanes and the infrastructure of settlement.

BOOK JACKET
Nature and the Environment in Nineteenth-century Ireland Matthew Kelly, 2019 The environmental humanities are one of the most exciting and rapidly expanding areas of interdisciplinary study and this collection of essays is a pioneering attempt to apply these approaches to the study of nineteenth century Ireland. By bringing together historians, geographers and literary scholars, new insights are offered into familiar subjects and unfamiliar subjects are brought out into the light. Essays re-considering O'Connellism, Lord Palmerston and Isaac Butt rub shoulders with examinations of agricultural improvement, Dublin's animal geographies and Ireland's healing places. Literary writers like Emily Lawless and Seumas O'Sullivan are looked at anew, encouraging us to re-think Darwinian influences in Ireland and the history of the Irish literary revival. Transnational perspectives are brought to bear on Ireland's national park history and the dynamics of Irish natural history. Much modern Irish history is concerned with access to natural resources; whether this reflects the catastrophic effect of the Great Famine or the conflicts associated with agrarian politics, but historical and literary analyses are rarely framed explicitly in these terms. The collection responds to the material turn in the humanities and contemporary concern about the environment by re-imagining Ireland's nineteenth century in fresh and original ways.

List of contributors: Matthew Kelly, Helen O'Connell, David Brown, Colin W. Reid, Huston Gilmore, Ronan Foley, Juliana Adelman, Mary Orr, Patrick Maume and Sean Hewitt.

Nature, 1890      Nature Sir Norman Lockyer, 1889      Map-making, Landscapes and Memory William J. Smyth, 2006

This is the first engagement in one book by a geographer with the most formative and revolutionary period c. 1530-1750 in Ireland's history. Using the intertwined concepts of colonialism and early modernity, the book comprises a geographical analysis of the conquest and settlement of Ireland by the New English and Scottish. The consequences of this often violent intrusion upon the cultures and landscapes of pre-existing Irish societies are examined. The geographies of resistance or accommodation to conquest and colonisation and the striking cultural continuities and hybrid cultural forms that emerged from these encounters are explored and regionalised.
