

Glycogen Storage Disease

These disorders principally affect the liver and have nine different types depending on the enzymes involved. As carbohydrate metabolism in liver is responsible for glucose homeostasis this group of disorders presents typically with hypoglycemia and hepatomegaly (not in all types). Treatment is designed mainly to maintain normoglycemia and is achieved by continuous nasogastric infusion of glucose or oral uncooked starch. Uncooked starch acts as a slow release form of glucose. This is specially useful in Type I, III and IV but most demanding in Type I.

Journal of the National Cancer Institute, 2009 An Evidence-based Approach to the Treatment and Care of the Older Adult with Cancer Diane G. Cope, Anne M. Reb, 2006

Description: The book offers a comprehensive overview of the treatment and care of the older adult with cancer. The evidence-based practice approach is timely and provides the foundation for nursing practice that is the expected standard of care. The use of the case study at the end of each chapter assists the reader in the synthesis and application of the information. The book addresses every aspect of the care and treatment of not only the cancer patient but also the family. The chapter on complementary therapy is a bonus.

Purpose: The purpose is to focus on the unique aspects of treatment and care that the older adult with cancer requires. Addressing the older adult with cancer is of paramount importance to not only the health of the individual but of the family, community, and society. The book meets the author's objectives.

Audience: This is written for all healthcare providers. The authors have written a book that can be used by geriatric oncology nurses but it is appropriate for the multidisciplinary team that provides care to the older adult with cancer. The authors have the professional background with applicable experience to edit this book.

Features: This book covers more than the care and treatment of cancer in the older adult. It provides necessary background information that demonstrates the impact of cancer on the older patient and their significant others. The assessment information is useful for both experienced and novice nurses. The use of chapter case studies enables healthcare providers to apply the chapter content. The use of an evidence-based practice approach to delivering healthcare is essential. The information allows nurses to use the findings from reviewed research literature in providing the best care for their patients in an efficient manner that also considers patient preferences, the risks and the benefits of treatment or lack thereof.

Assessment: This book provides guidance to novice to expert nurses in the treatment and care of the older adult cancer patient using a holistic approach. The chapters are well written by authors who are experts in their field. The Cochrane Guidelines are considered the gold standard for evaluating research that impacts treatment selection and care of all patients.

Their use in the reference materials lends credibility to the information that is presented in the book Canadian Journal of Psychiatry ,2008 Drug Information Patrick M. Malone,Karen L.
