The Manipulators Robert Sobel, 1976      American Studies Jack Salzman, American Studies Association, 1986-08-29 A major three volume bibliography including an additional supplement of an annotated listing of American Studies monographs published between 1900 and 1988      American Mass Media Robert Atwan, Barry Orton, William Vesterman, 1986      The End of the Experiment Stanley Rothman, 2017-09-08 The End of the Experiment ties together Stanley Rothman's theory of post industrialism and his four decades of research on American politics and society Rothman discusses the rise and fall of the New Left the sixties impact on America's cultural elites and the emergence of new post industrial humanistic values The first part of this book explains how cultural shifts in post industrial society increased the influence of intellectuals and redefined America's core values The second part examines how the shift in American social and cultural values led to a crisis of confidence in the American experiment And in a final section Rothman's contemporaries provide insight into his work reflecting on his continued influence and his devotion to traditional liberalism Rothman presents a quantitative study of personality differences between traditional American elites and new cultural elites Rothman argues that the experiment of America as a new nation rooted in democracy morality and civic virtue is being destroyed by a disaffected intellectual class opposed to traditional values      The Mass Media in West Germany and the United States J. Herbert Altschull, Paula C. Pearce, 1978      Religion vs. Television Jay Newman, 1996-08-20 The subject of competition between religion and television has if only indirectly received considerable attention particularly from religionists disturbed by the threat posed by television programming to traditional religious beliefs values and attitudes This detailed study considers the competing cultural forces of television and religion from a wider and more theoretical perspective Newman examines the major forms of competition and the various motives and strategies of the people and groups involved His philosophical approach allows us to see that the most important aspect of competition between television and religion is their rivalry as cultural forces In this rivalry religion continues to have a profound influence on the shaping of television just as it has always had on all newly developing forms of culture      Broadcasting the Faith Michael E. Pohlman, 2021-02-02 Broadcasting the Faith tells the riveting story of the American church's embrace of radio in the early decades of the twentieth century By investigating major radio personalities like Walter Maier Aimee Semple McPherson Harry Emerson Fosdick and Charles Fuller this study considers the implications for theology in America when Christianity moved to the airwaves In the heyday of radio religious radio preachers sought to use their programs to counter the secularization of American culture Ultimately however their programs contributed to secularization by accelerating changes already evident in both the conservative and liberal streams of American Christianity To reach a vast American audience radio preachers transformed their sectarian messages into a religion more suitable to the masses thereby altering the very religion it aimed to preserve To make religion accessible to large and diverse audiences radio preachers accommodated their messages in ways suited to the medium of radio Although religious radio preachers set forth to advance the influence of religion in American society their choice to limit theological substance ironically promoted the secularization of the American church

Burnham,1993 Seeks to discover why so many good people engage in activities that many including themselves consider bad finding a coalition of economic and social interest in which the singleminded quest for profit is allied to the values of the Victorian saloon underworld and bohemian rebelliousness

The Military and the Media William V. Kennedy,1993-07-30 This book is the first about military media relations to argue for a fundamental restructuring of national journalism and the first to document the failure of American journalism in the national security field for the past thirty years Press complaints of excessive control by the military during the Persian Gulf War of 1990 91 were the inevitable result of the failure of American journalism to train competent specialists in military reporting and to provide an organizational structure that would assure continuing comprehensive coverage of national defense in peace and war This in turn is the result of retaining the city room concept as the basic organizational feature of the press with continuing reliance on the generalist in an age that demands increasingly well trained specialists So long as the press fails to modernize its basic methods of training to assure well trained defense specialists the military will be required to closely control reporters as in the Persian Gulf War as a basic requirement of security for armed forces members and the national interests Permitting the military to control how the military itself is reported is a grave danger to the democratic process Yet so long as the press refuses to accept responsibility for large scale reform the public will continue to support close military control as an essential element of safety for its sons and daughters in the armed forces and out of concern for the success of U S military operations This book will be of interest to students of the press of the military and of the media at large
