The Manpower Services Commission In Scotland Edinburgh Education And Society:

The Manpower Services Commission in Scotland Alice Brown, John Fairley, 1989 For more than 150 years empowering practices have been used by social workers in their work with families but the techniques of today differ significantly from those of the pioneers or even from those of a few years ago Today's practitioners recognize that empowering others is impossible social workers can however assist others as they empower themselves This book integrates time honored approaches with today's more modest goals mindful of what empowerment can and cannot do Synthesizing several theoretical supports the strengths perspective system theory theories of family well being and theories of coping the author responds to the question What works with today's families in need Practice illustrations are provided throughout to bring concepts to life and more important to present families describing their own experiences with achieving empowerment

Reconstructions of Secondary Education John Gray, Andrew McPherson, David Raffe, 2012-05-16 British secondary education has changed in major ways since 1945 This book examines some consequences and implications of both change and stability drawing on a unique series of national surveys of school leavers in Scotland The authors provide an empirical and theoretical account of central problems of contemporary schooling Their analysis covers certification curriculum and selection the effects of educational expansion trends in educational inequality the impact of comprehensive reorganisation truancy and alienation from schooling the explanation of differences in performance between schools and the implications for the public accountability of schools From these analyses the authors develop a critique of the theory of the education system that underpinned expansion They examine this theory's logical and empirical status as myth and elaborate how the political system and social science might jointly overcome some of the methodological difficulties that beset social and educational research

Changing Vocational Education and Training Ian Finlay, Stuart Niven, Stephanie Young, 2005-09-30 Vocational Education and Training VET has been the focus of change for some years Many nations have developed VET systems with long term strategies that benefit their economies including co ordinating economic industrial and VET policies and achieving consensus among major stakeholders in the system Changing Vocational Education and Training focuses on how the principles of stakeholding consensus participation and democracy can be applied to policy formulation and implementation Case studies presented and discussed by experts from eight nations provide sound examples of practical strategies which have been successfully implemented Changing Vocational Education and Training is a timely collection of the latest theory research and practice in VET policy It is essential reading for policy makers practitioners and academics
