Transfer and Development of Technology in Developing Countries United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, 1990 Technological Innovation and Third World Multinationals Paz Estrella Tolentino, 2003-09-02 This examines the relationship between technological growth and outward direct investment from firms in Asia and Latin America which has become increasingly significant as these countries develop Technologies for Basic Needs Hans Wolfgang Singer, 1982 ILO pub WEP pub Monograph on the appropriate choice of technology to satisfy basic needs in the economic development of developing countries proposes use of local level technology rather than technology transfer discusses the role of research and development extension services etc and refers to the need for education and training of technicians and trainers and to the role of ILO etc and includes a directory of development centres dealing mainly with small scale and rural area technologies References New Communication Technologies in Developing Countries Jarice Hanson, Uma Narula, 1990 First Published in 1990 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

Technology Policy and Development Pradip K. Ghosh, 1984-05-10 For the developing countries to take advantage of the accumulated and growing body of scientific and technological information they must develop competence in choosing technology through an institutionalized technology policy Third World experiences in developing and implementing technology policies are documented and analyzed in this volume Issues such as the values shaping technology selection of appropriate technology technology transfer technological self reliance planning and development control are discussed in detail Ideas for future policy development are evaluated Technology Transfer in the Developing Countries Manas Chatterji, 1990-02-19 The objective of this book is to present the problems and possibilities of transferring technology from the developed countries to the developing countries It presents the conceptual issues legal ramifications empirical testing of mathematical models and case studies of different industries Developing the Workforce in an Emerging Economy Kantha Dayaram, Linda Lambey, John Burgess, Tri Wulida Afrianty, 2020-04-21 This edited volume examines how forces of globalization demographic and technological change are manifested and accommodated in an emerging economy such as Indonesia which has a large workforce pool Using the human resource development framework the book explains the opportunities and challenges in developing human capabilities to support current and future living standards It looks at human development challenges across the spectrum of workforce skills and across the spectrum of formal and informal labour markets Through the case study on Indonesia this book presents many of the features and issues that are present in emerging economies as they grapple with human resource development in the globalized and networked era This book will appeal to researchers and policy makers working in the areas of human resource and economic development The Digital Challenge Shirin Madon,S Krishna,2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2003 Information and communication technologies ICTs are increasingly being recognized as vital to the economic growth and global inclusion and participation of developing countries This book brings together both academics and practitioners to provide a comprehensive and insightful overview of ICT and development around the world It examines the role of IT in providing new economic and industrial opportunities in increasing access to global information and communication in assisting small cultural and ethnic groups to overcome disadvantages of physical distance and in catalysing initiatives towards democratic decentralization and empowerment of citizens It also critically appraises major problems such as inappropriate focus and resource allocation and of missed opportunities By combining comparative case studies from Africa South and East Asia South America and Eastern Europe with theoretical analysis this volume synthesizes a range of issues related to the evident tensions that exist for developing countries as they try to balance global and local priorities through the adoption and use of ICTs Key Resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly 1946-1996 Dietrich Rauschning,Katja Wiesbrock,Martin Lailach,1997-08-28 Key resolutions from the first fifty years of the United Nations General Assembly Managing Technological Change in Less-advanced Developing Countries Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,1991 UN Millennium Development Library: Innovation UN Millennium Project,2013-06-17 The Millennium Development Goals adopted at the UN Millennium Summit in 2000 are the world s targets for dramatically reducing extreme poverty in its many dimensions by 2015 income poverty hunger disease exclusion lack of infrastructure and shelter while promoting gender equality education health and environmental sustainability These bold goals can be met in all parts of the world if nations follow through on their commitments to work together to meet them Achieving the Millennium Development Goals offers the prospect of a more secure just and prosperous world for all The UN Millennium Project was commissioned by United Nations Secretary General Kofi Annan to develop a practical plan of action to meet the Millennium Development Goals As an independent advisory body directed by Professor Jeffrey D Sachs the UN Millennium Project submitted its recommendations to the UN Secretary General in January 2005 The core of the UN Millennium Project s work has been carried out by 10 thematic Task Forces comprising more than 250 experts from around the world including scientists development practitioners parliamentarians policymakers and representatives from civil society UN agencies the World Bank the IMF and the private sector This report argues that meeting the Millennium Development Goals will require a substantial reorientation of development policies to focus on key sources of economic growth particularly the use of scientific and technological knowledge and related institutional adjustments It outlines key areas for policy action including focusing on platform or generic technologies defining infrastructure services as a foundation for technology improving higher education in science and placing universities at the center of local development spurring entrepreneurial activities improving the policy environment and focusing on areas of under funded research for development Development Centre

Industrial Competitiveness in Developing Countries Sanjaya Lall,1999 This book describes the micro foundations of competitiveness and enterprise and translates the lessons to national level It looks at the competitive performance in East Asia and highlights lessons to be learned by other developing countries Technology and Developing Countries

Richard Heeks,2020-04-28 The relationship between technology and development is explored by economists policy analysts and other experts The adoption of technology is studied in five main areas agriculture energy infrastructure the introduction of technology and the success and constraints of technological diffusion as a whole This volume also examines the technology transfer between North and South from a perspective of training environmental impact and aid dependency The emphasis is not placed simply on finding problems but ways forward are examined By bringing together both practical and intellectual analysis this collection signposts future directions in the technologydevelopment relationship Promoting Innovation in Developing Countries Jean-Eric Aubert,2005 Facilitating and responding to the emergence of grass root needs at the local level is also essential Support to entrepreneurs and local communities should be primarily provided in matching grant forms to facilitate the mobilization of local resources and ownership It is of primary importance to pay the greatest attention to country specificities not only in terms of development level size and specialization but also in terms of administrative and cultural traditions At the global level major issues need also to be considered and dealt with by appropriate incentives and regulations the role of foreign direct investment in developing countries technological development conditions of technologies patenting and licensing the North South research asymmetry and brain drain trends Technological Change and Rural Development in Poor Countries Kartik Chandra Roy,Cal Clark,1994 Rural development is a subject that appears to be plagued by a central paradox development is necessary to alleviate rural poverty but while new technology has raised agricultural output it has also increased the suffering of millions of poor landless families in many Third World countries The rural poor especially women have been marginalized urban migrants have become desperate unemployed squatters not well paid industrial workers and environmental degradation has proved severe The authors argue that many development programmes go awry because the authorities neglect essential development issues Development must be defined in terms of the provision of basic human needs which include life expectancy infant mortality and literacy indicators which reflect the quality of life of the bulk of the population not just a narrow elite What they suggest is that the issues neglected by the conventional approach must be addressed if true development is to occur
