Technology in a Changing World Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. Technology/Economy Programme, 1991 Technology in a Changing World OECD Staff, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Staff, 1992 This report presents the work of the High Level Group of Experts who drew the policy relevant conclusions from the material produced by the Technology Economy Programme TEP New Directions in Development Economics Mats Lundahl, Benno Ndulu, 2005-08-10 New Directions in Development Economics is divided into two parts The first half considers the dilemma of growth with special reference to its environmental cost The second half focuses on the role of the state in the context of the growing dominance of the free market argument The contributors include Paul Collier Partha Dasgupta Ronald Findlay and Deepak Lal Management of Technology H. Lowe, 1995-10-31 Explains the purpose of a technology strategy and the need for its integration with other business policies Science, Technology and Innovation Indicators in a Changing World Responding to Policy Needs OECD, 2007-09-20 A conference proceedings that discusses policy needs measurement issues and some of the challenges in describing cross cutting and emerging topics in science technology and innovation Explaining Technical Change in a Small Country Synnöve Vuori, Pentti Vuorinen, 2013-11-21 Technical change is produced by the interaction of a large number of technical economic social and institutional factors One of the starting points is the concept of national innovation systems The aim of this book is to take Finland as an example illustrating the challenges faced by small countries The characteristics and performance of the Finnish national innovation system of the last couple of decades are analyzed The Finnish experience is put in a broader context by comparing it with a few other countries The development paths possible in the near future are assessed According to the results many problems remain despite favourable developments in several technology indicators The rigidities of the social institutions created during the 1970s and 1980s seem to have become obstacles for economic and technological development There are fairly large differences between the countries studied and even between the culturally and historically close Nordic countries However Finland and Sweden seem to share the same kind of encompassing collective risk sharing systems which may have detrimental effects on for instance incentives related to innovativeness Increasing globalisation requires further development of the national system of innovation Technology policy must be seen as one part of more encompassing social and economic policies and the role of factors such as well functioning institutions appropriate education and sound incentive systems is highly important The papers of this book are written by experts of various research disciplines They reflect the respective views on the issue how technical change in Finland can be explained It is also discussed how Finland fares in comparison to Denmark Sweden Japan and the United States Managing Technology in Society Arie Rip, Thomas J. Misa, J. W. Schot, 1995 A fateful conceptual gap separates the policy makers and managers charged with promoting technology and the risk and technology assessors responsible for controlling it This hampers the effective use of many new technologies and prevents the development of others The strategy of constructive technology assessment CTA addresses this gap through facilitating societal learning processes and proposing a shared responsibility for the promotion and control of new technologies Combining analysis of both cases and concepts Managing Technology in Society confronts the underdevelopment of innovative potential for achieving goals of wealth sustainability and safety Factors that block change as well as conditions for successful learning are identified in a wide ranging selection of cases that encompass biotechnology clean technologies information and medical technologies The contributors build on the convergence of recent theories on technical change within economics sociology and the history of technology to offer suggestions for CTA action and so create a new paradigm of managing technology in society BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Technology, Globalization, and Sustainable Development Nicholas A. Ashford, Ralph P. Hall, 2011-10-18 In this work the authors offer a unified transdisciplinary approach for achieving sustainable development in industrialized nations They present an insightful analysis of the ways in which industrial states are unsustainable and how economic and social welfare are related to the environment public health and safety Resources in Education, 1976 New World Review, 1963 Technological Change and Opportunities for Development as a Moving Target Carlota Perez, 1999 Technology and Innovation Management, 1999 80 papers selected from PICMET 99 as representative of the field The New Paradigm of Systemic Competitiveness Colin I. Cobb, Marc Howard Ross, 1997 This is the first book devoted to examining why some issues proposed by aggrieved individuals or groups are denied access to policy agendas The book contains case studies that look at the policy process from the perspective of the strategies opponents often use to ensure agenda denial strategies usually motivated by perceived threats to widely held world views and identities The Uncertain Quest Francisco R. Sagasti, Jean Jacques Salomon, Céline Sachs-Jeantet, 1994 Science empirical knowledge and technology applied science have long played a key role in social development In modern times they have come to be seen as absolutely essential factors in the achievement of economic growth and development And though many dispute their ascendancy and legitimately point to their abuses there is no escaping their presence and impact Taking as a main theme the central role of science and technology in economic progress this first of a kind sourcebook gathers together the perspectives and expertise of an international body of specialists in science and technology policy to examine the role of science and technology in development and assess their social economic and political dimensions The authors look at the key issues in relation to the exigencies of developing countries in the new international context They emphasize the complexity of the links between science technology and development and the important insights to be gained from the study of these links The authors also point out that despite science and technology's promise of social and economic progress such progress is less than ever an inevitable result of their application though there is no doubt about what can be achieved through science and technology the quest is an uncertain one BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Connecting Students to a Changing World Committee for Economic Development.
