Spreading Fires:

How to Predict the Spread and Intensity of Forest and Range Fires Richard C. Rothermel, 1983 This manual documents procedures for estimating the rate of forward spread intensity flame length and size of fires burning in forests and rangelands Contains instructions for obtaining fuel and weather data calculating fire behavior and interpreting the results for application to actual fire problems

Effects of Fire on Madrean Province Ecosystems, 1996

Fire Retardancy of Polymeric Materials, Second Edition Charles A. Wilkie, Alexander B. Morgan, 2009-12-10 When dealing with challenges such as providing fire protection while considering cost mechanical and thermal performance and simultaneously addressing increasing regulations that deal with composition of matter and life cycle issues there are no quick one size fits all answers Packed with comprehensive coverage scientific approach step by step directions and a distillation of technical knowledge the first edition of Fire Retardancy of Polymeric Materials broke new ground It supplied a one stop resource for the development of new fire safe materials The editors have expanded the second edition to echo the multidisciplinary approach inherent in current flame retardancy technology and put it in a revised more user friendly format More than just an update of previously covered topics this edition discusses additional fire retardant chemistry developments in regulations and standards new flame retardant approaches fire safety engineering modeling and fire growth phenomena The book introduces flame retardants polymer by polymer supplemented by a brief overview of mode of action and interaction and all the other ancillary issues involved in this applied field of materials science The book delineates what why and how to do it covering the fundamentals of polymer burning combustion and how to apply these systems and chemistries to specific materials classes It also provides suggested formulations discusses why certain materials are preferred for particular uses or applications and offers a starting point from which to develop fire safe materials

Wildland Fire Behaviour Mark A. Finney, Sara S. McAllister, Jason M. Forthofer, Torben P. Grumstrup, 2021-11 Wildland fires have an irreplaceable role in sustaining many of our forests shrublands and grasslands They can be used as controlled burns or occur as free burning wildfires and can sometimes be dangerous and destructive to fauna human communities and natural resources Through scientific understanding of their behaviour we can develop the tools to reliably use and manage fires across landscapes in ways that are compatible with the constraints of modern society while benefiting the ecosystems The science of wildland fire is incomplete however Even the simplest fire behaviours how fast they spread how long they burn and how large they get arise from a dynamical system of physical processes interacting in unexplored ways with heterogeneous biological ecological and meteorological factors across many scales of time and space The physics of heat transfer combustion and ignition for example operate in all fires at millimetre and millisecond scales but wildfires can become conflagrations that burn for months and exceed millions of hectares Wildland Fire Behaviour Dynamics Principles and Processes examines what is known and unknown about wildfire behaviours The authors introduce fire as a dynamical system along with traditional steady state concepts They then break down the system into its primary physical components describe how they depend upon environmental factors and explore system dynamics by constructing and exercising a nonlinear model The limits of modelling and knowledge are discussed throughout but emphasised by review of large fire behaviours Advancing knowledge of fire behaviours will require a multidisciplinary approach and rely on quality measurements from experimental research as covered in the final chapters      Ecological and Demographic Consequences of a Nuclear War Yuri M.
