Foster,Sarah T. Jewell,2017-03-03 Here is a complete guide for librarians seeking to launch or refine their systematic review services Conducting searches for systematic reviews goes beyond expert searching and requires an understanding of the entire process of the systematic review Just as expert searching is not fully mastered by the end of a library degree mastering the systematic review process takes a great deal of time and practice Attending workshops and webinars can introduce the topic but application of the knowledge through practice is required Running a systematic review service is complicated and requires constant updating and evaluation with new standards more efficient methods and improved reporting guidelines After a brief introduction to systematic reviews the book guides librarians in defining and marketing their services covering topics such as when it is appropriate to ask for co authorship and how to reach out to stakeholders Next it addresses developing documentation and conducting the reference interview Standards specific to systematic reviews including PRISMA Institute of Medicine and Cochrane Collaboration are discussed Search strategy techniques including choosing databases harvesting search terms selecting filters and searching for grey literature are detailed Data management and critical appraisal are covered in detail Finally the best practices for reporting the findings of systematic reviews are highlighted Experts with experience in both systematic reviews and librarianship including the editors of the book contributed to the chapters Each step or piece of the review process Planning the review Identifying the studies Evaluating studies Collecting and combining data Explaining the results and Summarizing the review into a report are covered with emphasis on information roles The book is for any librarian interested in conducting reviews or assisting others with reviews It has several applications for training librarians new to systematic reviews for those developing a new systematic review service for those wanting to establish protocols for a current service and as a reference for those conducting reviews or running a service Participating in systematic reviews is a new frontier of librarianship in which librarians can truly become research partners with our patrons instead of merely providing access to resources and services

Computer Science and Statistics: Proceedings of the 13th Symposium on the Interface W. F. Eddy,2012-12-06

The 13th Symposium on the Interface continued this series after a one year pause. The objective of these symposia is to provide a forum for the interchange of ideas of common concern to computer scientists and statisticians. The sessions of the 13th Symposium were held in the Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel Gateway Center Pittsburgh. Following established custom the 13th Symposium had organized workshops on various topics of interest to participants. The workshop format allowed the invited speakers to present their material variously as formal talks, tutorial sessions and open discussion. The Symposium schedule was also the customary one. Registration opened in late afternoon of March 11 1981 and continued during the opening mixer held that evening. The formal opening of the Symposium was on the morning of March 12. The opening remarks were followed by Bradley Efron's address Statistical Theory and the Computer. The rest of the daily schedule was three concurrent workshops in the morning and three in the afternoon with contributed poster sessions during the noon break. Additionally there were several commercial displays and guided tours of Carnegie Mellon University's Computer Center, Computer Science research facilities and Robotics Institute.

Personal Computers for Distance Learning Ann Jones, Gill Kirkup, Adrian Kirkwood, 1993-10-28. I found this book stimulating and easy to read and would encourage anyone who is concerned with distance education to read it. Computer Education Interesting, informative and clearly written. It is a rich source of material on several fronts. Some of its value comes from its broad perspective, some from it being a detailed case Open Praxis. This book is about the convergence of two important streams of educational innovation distance education and the educational use of personal computers PCs. During the 1970s and 1980s distance education became a significant aspect of the post school educational provision of many countries. Every indication is that this trend will con
