Teachers As Cultural Workers:

Teachers as Cultural Workers, 2005      Go Where You Belong Lemuel W. Watson, C. Sheldon Woods, 2011-11-12 The narratives in this book engage the reader and take him or her on a journey to understanding of what it means to be a male teacher who works in early childhood education or with young children They passionately share of their challenges to be involved in children's lives because they are called to do so this work is part of their life purpose Their narratives details interactions between the teacher and the day to day lives of students parents peers and supervisors while sharing what it takes to survive as a man in what is perceived very often in our post modern world as women's work In the bigger scheme of things the men teachers serve as cultural workers with their female peers to educate not only our children but our community and eventually ourselves about gender roles in our society and the need to have more role models during the first years of schooling A fascinating book and a must read for parents teachers administrators and other human service professionals who want to learn more about how to engage men in the lives of children      Education and Cultural Studies Henry A. Giroux, Patrick Shannon, 2013-12-02 Although the disciplines of critical education and cultural studies have traditionally occupied separate spaces as they have addressed different audiences their concerns as well as the political and pedagogical nature of their work overlap Education and Cultural Studies brings members of these two groups together to demonstrate how a critical understanding of culture and education can transgressively implement broad political change All written from within this framework of cultural studies and critical pedagogy the contributors illuminate the possibilities and opportunities open to practicing educators In eschewing a romantic utopianism and in assessing the current climate of what is attainable and practical this book teaches us how we can begin to translate and perhaps even transform the vexing social problems that confront us daily Contributors include Carol Becker Harvey J Kaye David Theo Goldberg Jeffrey Williams Sharon Todd Douglas Kellner Deborah Britzman Jacqueline Reid Walsh Claudia Mitchell Cameron McCarthy Mike Hill Susan Searls Stanley Aronowitz Douglas Noble Kakie Urch Henry Giroux David Trend and Robert Mikilitsch      Border Crossings Henry A. Giroux, 2007-05-11 The concept of border and border crossing has important implications for how we theorize cultural politics power ideology pedagogy and critical intellectual work This completely revised and updated edition takes these areas and draws new connections between postmodernism feminism cultural studies and critical pedagogy Highly relevant to the times which we currently live Giroux reflects on the limits and possibilities of border crossings in the twenty first century and argues that in the post 9 11 world borders have not been collapsing but vigorously rebuilt The author identifies the most pressing issues facing critical educators at the turn of the century and discusses topics such as the struggle over the academic canon the role of popular culture in the curriculum and the cultural war the New Right has waged on schools New sections deal with militarization in public spaces empire building and the cultural politics of neoliberalism Those interested in cultural studies critical race theory education sociology and speech communication will find this a valuable source of information      Cultivating Cultural Workers Through Service Learning in Teacher Education Melanie Williams Thornton, 2007 Author's abstract This is the study of cultivating cultural workers through service learning in teacher education The five participants Kathy European American Denise African American Alberto Hispanic American McKenzie African American and Zena African American were pre service teachers enrolled in a developmental reading program at a college in Southwest Georgia where service learning was the major conceptual framework The five participants were born in the mid 1980s attended high schools in Georgia in the U S and entered colleges in the Fall of 2004 My passion for this inquiry is driven by my desire to foster a sense of agency for social justice and transformation for positive changes in the community During the collaborative research process we shared our intense feelings about what it means to serve to the community the importance of reading and our outlook on the teaching field Part of the challenge in writing this dissertation was to develop an inquiry method relevant to the study The inquiry method used in this study is a combination of community based research and narrative inquiry community based narrative inquiry The most important finding of the study is that there is a need for developing a preservice education curriculum with service learning as the major conceptual framework to 2 empower pre service teachers to become cultural workers for the community and agents for social justice and social change The theoretical framework of my dissertation inquiry draws upon the works of John Dewey 1938 Paulo Freire 1970 Anna Julia Cooper 1892 and W E B DuBois 1920 John Dewey is the primary theorist of the theoretical framework for this study Dewey was a proponent in reflective thinking which is an integral part of the service learning experience Using experience and consciousness to make reading come alive is the reason that Freire's work is vital to this study Coopers mantra of lifting as we climb and her work with underprepared students makes her work significant to the theoretical framework DuBois theory of education as a practice of freedom and consciousness also contributes to the theoretical framework of this dissertation inquiry which helps perceive service learning as a way of connecting education with life in the school and community as a participatory and liberating process as community based initiatives and outcomes and as ways of raising critical consciousness fostering empowerment and building community to cultivate pre service teachers to become cultural workers Though my study focused on pre service teachers enrolled in a developmental reading program it has significance for recognition for developing a curriculum with service learning as the major conceptual framework It has implications for policymakers teacher educators and communities of the importance to work together to prepare preservice teachers to become cultural workers in an increasingly diversifying world      Teachers: The Culture and Politics of Work (RLE Edu N) Martin Lawn, Gerald Grace, 2012-04-27 This book examines the experience and politics of teachers work questions of teacher appraisal and the struggles of the teachers action of 1984-86 A major section of the book charts the changing power relations between organized teachers and the State in Britain from 1900 to the late 1980s The contributors to this volume write from a variety of perspectives including conflict theory socio historical analysis feminist analysis diary based ethnography and interview based research With its sensitivity to this range of perspectives and its bringing together of the experimental aspects of teaching as well as its class gender and political relations this book is an authoritative source for courses in education sociology history and social policy      The Shaping School Culture Fieldbook

Kent D. Peterson, Terrence E. Deal, 2011-01-04 When the bestselling books Shaping School Culture and The Shaping School Culture Fieldbook were first published Kent D Peterson and Terrence E Deal described the critical elements of school culture the purposes traditions norms and values that guide and glue the community together The authors showed how a positive culture makes school reform work and the companion Fieldbook included the tools needed to bring out the best in students teachers and the surrounding community In today's complex educational environment new challenges have surfaced for school leaders who must grapple with issues of standards based testing school accountability and student achievement The second edition of The Shaping School Culture Fieldbook offers a companion to the newly revised edition of Shaping School Culture and includes an expanded version of Peterson and Deal's time tested model to address the latest thinking on school culture and change The Fieldbook offers a wealth of new ideas and approaches and includes new material on toxic environments with specific action plans In addition the book contains powerful new case examples for revitalizing school culture The Shaping School Culture Fieldbook draws on the authors extensive research and nationwide school contacts and includes hands on strategies and exercises for helping school leaders Uncover a school's hidden values beliefs and assumptions Think through and develop a school's mission and purpose Work out appropriate stories metaphors and symbols to represent a school Devise rituals and ceremonies for enriching the school experience Rethink leadership practices in light of educational and cultural needs Identify transform and heal a toxic educational culture This important resource will help school leaders understand assess and transform school culture for organizational success      Teaching Cultural Skills

Maribel Blasco, 2009 Today a cultural dimension is increasingly being taught at universities as a supplement to disciplines that have not traditionally paid much attention to culture Universities are competing to produce graduates with a global mindset who are well equipped to cope in multicultural team oriented workplaces Yet the way in which culture is taught is bound to differ depending on the context in which the teaching takes place Current research on teaching cultural skills tends to favor a social constructivist approach where actors are seen as constructing collective means of sense making in the arenas and groups in which they participate Teachers who are often very keen to promote tolerance empathy and intercultural dialogue often support such an approach but it can be a challenge to transfer this to teaching especially in interdisciplinary contexts Teaching Cultural Skills explores these challenges based on experiences from Danish universities Its broader themes make it highly relevant for teachers of culture elsewhere These themes include the globalization of labor markets and trade immigration which has led to increased awareness of the need for cultural skills and the internationalization of higher education which has made classrooms more multicultural than ever before      School Culture
