Little Bear's Adventures - Real (Sometimes Extreme) Outdoor Trips As Chronicled by Papa Bear Paul Brach,2009-04-10 This book is a compilation of trip reports written in the form of short stories detailing the adventures of Little Bear Paul Gerard with his father Papa Bear Paul J. the author of these tales. They take place every month of the year over a period of twenty-two years from the time that Little Bear was fourteen until he was thirty-six years old. Usually when Little Bear accompanied Papa Bear on his wanderings among the High Peaks they were blessed by delightful downpours or immersed in ghostly dripping mists and fog. Always several unusual incidents occurred under such conditions and recording the event under the guise of a trip report became a rambling account mixing facts with fantasy-like characters.

It has been found by many high school and other beginning broadcasting groups that the problems of immature voices, inexperienced sound and music crews, and inadequate equipment make actual broadcasting for public listening inadvisable.

One solution is the children's hour type of broadcast. Instead of trying to use materials beyond the physical age and emotional experience of the student, provide interesting programs for the children of the community by airing the old and always loved fairy tales. Many high school and even college groups find that these are within the pale of their experience and ability, that the imaginary characters are within the vocal age of the individual performer young as he may be. This collection provides scripts which have been tested in actual broadcast. They have proved both easy to produce and of interest to younger children. A producing group can aid in answering the problem of providing better children's programs on the air by broadcasting such programs as these and at the same time gain experience for eventual work on more difficult and challenging broadcasts.
