Risk Management of Terrorism Induced Stress Iryna Frankova, Lior Carmi, Oleg Chaban, Joseph Zohar, 2020-02-15 Terrorism is a psychological weapon by definition; its purpose is to spread terror or fear in order to achieve goals unattainable by more conventional means. It is a weapon of asymmetric warfare whose success or failure is entirely dependent on the psychological reactions of its targets. Despite this interest in the effects of terrorism from a behavioral and psychological perspective, it is relatively recent, dating initially from the 1990s and boosted by the events of September 11th, 2001. This book presents papers delivered at the NATO Advanced Research Workshop (ARW) "Risk Management of Terrorism Induced Stress: Guidelines for the Golden Hours Who, What, and When" held in Odesa, Ukraine.

from 16-19 September 2018. The aim of the workshop was to bring together experts from the military science and policy to revisit old guidelines and inform new research into novel approaches. The focus of the workshop was the so-called Golden Hours, the period immediately following a traumatic event in which therapeutic interventions are thought to have the most impact. What needs to be done in the immediate aftermath of terror who is vulnerable and who is resilient and when is intervention appropriate. The book is divided into sections covering the areas of biology, interventions, special populations, additional perspectives, policy, d-j vu and future directions. Providing a comprehensive overview of the management of terror related stress, the book will be of interest to planners and policy makers as well as mental health professionals working with PTSD and other consequences of terror events.

Art Therapy in the Treatment of Addiction and Trauma Patricia Quinn, 2020-12-21. This book examines the benefits and uses of art therapy in the treatment of addiction and trauma, highlighting its effectiveness at revealing underlying causes and relapse triggers as well as treating co-occurring conditions that impair learning and recovery. This book also focuses on art therapy for trauma within specific populations including incarcerated individuals, military personnel and survivors of commercial sexual exploitation. Quinn discusses how art therapy is often carried out alongside combined approaches such as CBT and DBT and how it can help those with cognitive issues to learn through treatment. Furthermore, this book explores the benefits art therapy has for people with co-morbid conditions such as dementia, emotional disorders and traumatic and acquired brain injuries. With co-authored chapters from leading researchers in art therapy, the book demonstrates how art therapy can help to uncover triggers, process trauma and find a means of self-expression whilst working towards a sustained recovery.

Dissociation and the Dissociative Disorders Paul F. Dell, John A. O'Neil, 2010-11. Winner of ISSTD's 2009 Pierre Janet Writing Award for the best publication on dissociation in 2009. Dissociation and the Dissociative Disorders is a book that has no real predecessor in the dissociative disorders field. It reports the most recent scientific findings and conceptualizations about dissociation, defines and establishes the boundaries of current knowledge in the dissociative disorders field, identifies and carefully articulates the field's current points of confusion, gaps in knowledge and conjectures, clarifies the different aspects and implications of dissociation, and sets forth a research agenda for the next decade. In many respects, Dissociation and the Dissociative Disorders both defines and redefines the field.
