The ambitious self made man who reached the pinnacle of American politics only to be felled by an assassin's bullet and to die at the hands of his doctors James A Garfield was one of the Republican Party's leading lights in the years following the Civil War Born in a log cabin he rose to become a college president Union Army general and congressman all by the age of thirty two Embodying the strive and succeed spirit that captured the imagination of Americans in his time he was elected president in 1880 It is no surprise that one of his biographers was Horatio Alger Garfield's term in office however was cut tragically short Just four months into his presidency a would be assassin approached Garfield at the Washington D C railroad station and fired a single shot into his back Garfield's bad luck was to have his fate placed in the care of arrogant physicians who did not accept the new theory of antisepsis Probing the wound with unwashed and occasionally manure laden hands Garfield's doctors introduced terrible infections and brought about his death two months later Ira Rutkow a surgeon and historian offers an insightful portrait of Garfield and an unsparing narrative of the medical crisis that defined and destroyed his presidency For all his youthful ambition the only mark Garfield would make on the office would be one of wasted promise
