We both have visited Bulgaria many times we have had many personal friends among its scholars and statesmen and we feel a deep sympathy for the tragic plight of this long suffering Slavic nation with its industrious and hard working people. We both feel also that it is an injustice to Bulgaria and a loss to American Slavic scholarship that in spite of the importance of Bulgaria for the Slavic world so little attention is paid to the country's cultural contributions. This is the more deplorable for American influence in Bulgaria was great even before World War I. Many Bulgarians were educated in Robert College in Constantinople and after World War I in the American College in Sofia one of the institutions supported by the Near East Foundation. Many Bulgarian professors have visited the United States in happier times. So it seems unfair that Americans and American universities have ignored so completely the development of the Bulgarian genius and culture during the past century.
