Fear & Hope Luke Marusiak, 2013-06-17 The collapse of the steel industry in the 1970s hit Western Pennsylvania hard. Hundreds of thousands lost their livelihoods, population sank, schools closed, and despair ruled. In the midst of these trials, the destinies of three who came of age during that time—Philip Bennet, Liam Conti, and Ruth O'Brien—were determined by the choice they made: that of fear or that of hope. As the three grapple with their situation and their yearning for significance, they discover their fight is part of a much larger struggle. Excerpt from the preface: Barack Obama referring to Pennsylvanians, April 2008. It's not surprising then that they get bitter, they cling to guns or religion or antipathy to people who aren't like them. That characterization is so far from the truth, an answer is in order. Fear Hope is intended to be that answer. This novel is meant first of all to entertain, because the Western Pennsylvania tragedies and triumphs are one heck of a story. But it is also, in some small measure, meant to both rebuff Mr. Obama's pompous marginalization and point out the cautionary tales of high cost mistakes made then that are being repeated today. This novel is part of the Good Fight Series and overlaps times and characters of Marx Ford Loud Clear and the upcoming Gold Glory.

Highland Park and River Oaks Cheryl Caldwell Ferguson, 2014-08-27 In the early twentieth century, developers from Baltimore to Beverly Hills built garden suburbs, a new kind of residential community that incorporated curvilinear roads and landscape design as picturesque elements in a neighborhood. Intended as models for how American cities should be rationally, responsibly, and beautifully modernized, garden suburban communities were fragments of a larger, if largely imagined, garden city—the mythical good city of U.S. city planning practices of the 1920s. This extensively illustrated book chronicles the development of the two most fully realized garden suburbs in Texas: Dallas's Highland Park and Houston's River Oaks. Cheryl Caldwell Ferguson draws on a wealth of primary sources to trace the planning, design, financing, implementation, and long-term management of these suburbs. She analyzes homes built by such architects as H. B. Thomson, C. D. Hill, Fooshee Cheek, John F. Staub, Birdsall P. Briscoe, and Charles W. Oliver. She also addresses the evolution of the shopping center by looking at Highland Park's Shopping Village, which was one of the first in the nation. Ferguson sets the story of Highland Park and River Oaks within the larger story of the development of garden suburban communities in Texas and across America to explain why these two communities achieved such prestige, maintained their property values, became the most successful in their cities in the twentieth century, and still serve as ideal models for suburban communities today.
