Staying On Retention And Migration In Peasant Societies:

Staying on José Havet, 1988      Staying on University of Ottawa. Institute for International Development and Co-operation, 1988      Mobility and Modernity Steven Lawrence Hochstadt, 2023-07-28 Mobility and Modernity uses voluminous German data on migrations over the past two centuries to demonstrate why conventional assumptions about the relationship between mobility and modernity must be revised. Thus far the changing total volume of migration has not been traced over a long period for any country. Unique migration registration statistics both detailed and broadly geographical in coverage allow the precise plotting of migration rates in Germany since 1820. Steve Hochstadt combines careful quantitative methods easily understood numerical data and social analysis based upon broad reading in German social history to show that current beliefs about the direction and timing of changes in German mobility which have been based on late nineteenth century anxieties about urbanization and industrialization do not match the data. Migration rates in Germany rose continuously throughout the nineteenth century and have fallen during the twentieth century. Mobility, Hochstadt argues, was not an unprecedented accompaniment to industrialization but a traditional rural response to specific economic changes. Hochstadt's more precise analysis of urban in and outmigration shows the mechanism of urbanization to have been the migration of families rather than the much greater but also more circular migration of single men and women. Hochstadt demonstrates the importance of examining historical behavior powerfully justifying the methods of historical demography as a path to social understanding. The data and specific conclusions are German but the methods and reinterpretation of migration history have much wider application both to other modern European nations and to currently developing countries. Those who study the modern social history of Europe, the mechanisms that formed urban working classes and the methods of historical demography will be interested in Hochstadt's work      Migration in South and Southern Africa Pieter Kok (Zuid-Afrika.), 2006 Covers three broad areas: macro level migration trends in sub-Saharan Africa; micro level factors in South African migration; and a synthesis of current migration theory      Chronic Poverty In Asia: Causes, Consequences And Policies John Malcolm Dowling, Chin-fang Yap, 2009-10-14 Asia contains the bulk of the world's poor as many as 500 million people. A significant fraction of these poor are chronically poor which means that they and their families have been poor for years and will remain in poverty unless governmental policies are adopted which can lift them out of poverty. This book focuses on rural poverty and those countries in Asia with the largest number of chronically poor including the two emerging superpowers of China and India, other countries of South Asia and the Mekong region as well as Indonesia and Philippines in Southeast Asia. Systematic analysis of who is poor where they live and why they are poor is carried out. Microeconomic sector and macroeconomic policies which have been adopted to address this important social issue are also discussed. Through specific country analysis the book outlines additional concrete measures that can be taken to reduce chronic poverty and improve the welfare of these people      Performing the Community Cora Govers, 2006 Economic liberalization, modern mass media and new religious and political movements have touched even the most remote areas in Mexico and the Northern Highlands of the state of Puebla are no exception When this coincides with recent infrastructures such as roads and electricity and new income sources from cash crop production and urban migration the nature of rural communities rapidly changes This study shows how the people of the Totonac mountain village of Nanacatl deal with their increasingly pluriform and differentiated local world By performing stories rituals and exchanges they have countered centrifugal cultural and social forces Rather than leading to the demise of the community modernization and globalization thus seem to have reinforced the sense of local belonging How is this possible This anthropological analysis points at the simultaneous efforts of new and old cultural brokers ritual specialists and healers as well as young migrants who recreate the community by linking the outside world to local customs Their initiatives are taken up by women crucial for community building through elaborate food exchanges and men whose involvement is central to public ritual life Their combined efforts create a living community and link the village past to its rural urban present and future as a place of belonging in times of change Cora Govers is a senior staff member at the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research NWO

Asia and the Global Economic Crisis J. Dowling, P. Rana, 2010-09-17 This book provides an analysis of the global economic crisis from an Asian perspective It examines the impacts of the policy measures adopted the remaining challenges in rebalancing the global economy the next steps in regional economic integration in Asia and issues related to reform of the international financial architecture

Culture, 1989 Migration, Remittances and Farm Decisions in Rural Mexico Margaret S. Gillatt, 1990 Cities, Poverty, and Development Alan Gilbert, Josef Gugler, 1992 It is expected that by the end of the decade only the poorest cities in Asia and Africa will still be predominantly rural This book seeks to explain this urban revolution and to show how people survive in the cities why they move from the country side and what involvement they have in politics Asian and Pacific Population Forum, 1991 African Rural and Urban Studies, 1994 Women and Work in Developing Countries

Parvin Ghorayshi, 1994-04-21 Feminist scholars have shown that women have a long history of productive work outside the home and current research has focussed on the distinct nature of women's work and the role of women in the workforce While much attention has been given to industrialized nations this volume provides a comprehensive bibliographic record of books articles dissertations and audiovisual sources on women and work in developing countries The first chapter of the book provides entries for general works and for works of a theoretical nature and is divided into sections on the global economy theoretical considerations and methodological concerns Other chapters are devoted to particular geographic areas and include sections on introductory works the social construction of gender development policies work and family issues women's experience of wage work work in rural areas and the efforts of women to promote change Each entry is accompanied by a descriptive annotation The last chapter is on audio visual resources and the volume concludes with an appendix of organizations and research institutions The Rural-urban Interface in Africa Jonathan Baker, Poul O.

Pedersen,1992 Discusses the role of small towns as agents for rural improvement and focuses on the links provided by small towns to both rural areas and larger towns Reviews the role of selected indigenous nongovernmental organizations NGOs in supporting the activities of small enterprises in small towns and rural areas Covers trends from the 1960s Survival in Rural Tanzania Esther J.
