The Stornoway Way Kevin MacNeil, 2006-09-07 Fuck everyone from Holden Caulfield to Bridget Jones fuck all the American and English phoney fictions that claim to speak for us they don't know the likes of us exist and they never did We are who we are because we grew up the Stornoway way We do not live in the back of beyond we live in the very heart of beyond Meet R Stornoway drink addled misfit inhabitant of the Hebridean Isle of Lewis and meandering man fighting to break free of an island he just can't seem to let go of The sportsman's, tourist's, and general time-tables and guide to ... Scotland, ed. by J.W. Lyall J Watson Lyall, 1895-05 Summer tours in Scotland, official guide. [With] David MacBrayne (ltd.), 1898 Edinburgh Companion to Contemporary Scottish Literature Berthold Schoene, 2007-04-11 The Edinburgh Companion to Contemporary Scottish Literature examines the ways in which the cultural and political role of Scottish writing has changed since the country's successful referendum on national self rule in 1997 In doing so it makes a convincing case for a distinctive post devolution Scottish criticism Introducing over forty original essays under four main headings Contexts Genres Authors and Topics the volume covers the entire spectrum of current interests and topical concerns in the field of Scottish studies and heralds a new era in Scottish writing literary criticism and cultural theory It records and critically outlines prominent literary trends and developments the specific political circumstances and aesthetic agendas that propel them as well as literature's capacity for envisioning new and alternative futures Issues under discussion include class sexuality and gender nationhood and globalisation the New Europe and cosmopolitan citizenship postcoloniality Scottish Writing After Devolution Scott Hames, Camille Manfredi, Marie-Odile Pittin-Hedon, 2022-02-15 A provisional re mapping of Scotland's post devolution literary culture these fifteen essays explore how literature theatre and visual art have both shaped and reflected the new Scotland promised by parliamentary devolution Chapters explore leading figures such as Alasdair Gray David Greig Kathleen Jamie and Jackie Kay while also paying particular attention to women's writing by Kate Atkinson A L Kennedy Denise Mina Ali Smith Louise Welsh and writers of colour such as Bashabi Fraser Annie George Tendai Huchu Chin Li and Raman Mundair Tracing continuities with 1990s debates alongside edges of the new visible since Indyref 2014 these critics offer an in depth study of Scotland's vibrant literary production in the period of devolution viewed both within and beyond the frame of national representation Bilbao-New York-Bilbao Kirmen Uribe, 2016-04-29 The day he knew he was going to die Liborio Uribe took his young daughter in law to the Museum of Fine Arts to show her a picture Liborio had spent his entire life at sea like his son Jos living out unforgettable adventures which would later fade into obscurity Years after faced by the same painting Liborio's grandson Kirmen a writer and poet uses these family stories to write a novel Bilbao New York Bilbao takes place during a flight to New York and tells the story of journeys by three generations of the same family The key to the book is Liborio's fishing boat the Dos Amigos who are these two friends and what is the nature of their friendship Through letters diaries emails poems and dictionaries Kirmen creates a mosaic of memories and stories that combine to form a homage to a world that has almost disappeared as well as a hymn to the continuity of life. It is also a reflection on the art of writing and lies between life and fiction. Uribe has succeeded in realizing what is surely an ambition for many writers: a book that combines family romances and literature anchored deeply in a spoken culture but also in bookishness and all without a single note of self-congratulation. TLS. The novel is set in an absolutely modern territory, the usual place of key writers of our time such as Emmanuel Carrère, W.G. Sebald, Orhan Pamuk and J.M. Coetzee. Sudouest. This book is as beautiful as a memory. Le Figaro. Uribe's literary proposal is entirely fresh and innovative. A novel of our time. This writer who comes from a small country begins his journey through the field of universal literature searching for transnational communication. Mainichi Shimbun. A splendid novel which the reader acknowledges like a hug. El País. Beautiful. It has the rare quality of attending to tradition without sounding like folk and being modern without rejecting those that were so before. ABC. This ingenious and original historiographical novel tells the story of its own writing as Uribe explores the history of his family and the Basque Country fishing community of which they have long been a part. Framed by the author's plane journey to the States, the web of digressions is mapped by ever lengthening and constantly entwining cultural tendrils as the family diffuses around the world led off by his father's trawler. The intersection between truth and storytelling is a particularly potent theme contrasting the prosaic and the poetic, the pragmatic and the romantic. It is a view from the inside of the novel looking out upon the reader in consideration of what might prove engaging: a metafictional conceit made engaging by the genial candour of Uribe or at least his novelistic avatar as he explores the process of researching and honing his book. Huge credit must go to Wales-based indie Seren Books for bringing this book to English language readers; it's extraordinary that this winner of Spain's prestigious Premio Nacional de Literatura wasn't picked up by a major publisher. Jonathan Ruppin, Foyles Best Fiction 2014.
