The Pink House:

The Pink House David Dinklage, 2007-12 REDFISH In a still and shallow surf he fishes sandbar white and shell pink redfish in much the same manner he would fish bonefish in other waters STRIPED BASS he is telling about the rumor of a spotter plane out of the Chesapeake reporting a thirty seven mile long school of large striped bass coming down along the coast of Virginia BLUEFISH the boys are running along a summer afternoon s surf chasing flighty schools of small blues scattering bait beneath the terns BONEFISH they mount the edge of the sill in cautious sallies keeping their shadows close beneath them briefly on quickly off POMPANO there were shoals of pompano turning in the evening surf like polychromatic discs returning the last violet rays of the sinking sun TUNA and he told of his years with the charter boat fleet hunting the giant tuna the giant tuna that were no more GROUPER they fished tarred hand lines without leaders and sunk with sash weights the hooks baited with orange chunks of conch

The Pink House at the Seashore Deborah Blumenthal, 2005 A house can be more than just a shelter Some houses are places where family traditions grow where memories live But what happens to the traditions and memories when the house is gone After losing a beloved summer home to a treacherous storm two children and their parents discover the affirming answer to this poignant question together Evocative paintings and spare text show the family combing the sand for fragments of their possessions sharing memories and beginning to look beyond their loss

Leaving the Pink House Ladette Randolph, 2014-09-01 Ladette Randolph understands her life best through the houses she has inhabited From the isolated farmhouse of her childhood to the series of houses her family occupied in small towns across Nebraska as her father pursued his dream of becoming a minister to the equally small houses she lived in as a single mother and graduate student houses have shaped her understanding of her place in the world and served as touchstones for a life marked by both constancy and endless cycles of change On September 12 2001 Randolph and her husband bought a dilapidated farmhouse on twenty acres outside Lincoln Nebraska and set about gutting and rebuilding the house themselves They had nine months to complete the work The project undertaken at a time of national unrest and uncertainty led Randolph to reflect on the houses of her past and the stages of her life that played out in each both painful and joyful As the couple struggles to bring the dilapidated house back to life Randolph simultaneously traces the contours of a life deeply shaped by the Nebraska plains where her family has lived for generations and how those roots helped her find the strength to overcome devastating losses as a young adult Weaving together strands of departures and arrivals new houses and deep roots cycles of change and the cycles of the seasons Leaving the Pink House is a richly layered and compelling memoir of the meaning of home and family and how they can never really leave us even if we leave them

The Pink House at Appleton Jonathan Braham, 2015-01-28 This is the second edition of The Pink House at Appleton a disturbing novel of adultery and betrayal about a Jamaican childhood a domineering father and a submissive mother on a Jamaican sugar estate Set in 1950s Jamaica during British colonial rule the novel covers a year in the life of a black middle class

Jamaican family at Appleton Sugar Estate Against a background of subtle race and class prejudice and adultery the novel describes the fate of the Brookes family when Harold Brookes proud and ambitious determined to establish himself and bring up his family with the right values is unable to measure up to his own ideals His clandestine relationship with Ann Mitchison the white wife of the English assistant general manager of the estate and the ramifications of a previous secret liaison with a common woman bring about the destruction of both families The story is about the meeting of innocence and experience seen mainly through the eyes of the sexually aware eight year old Boyd Brookes who is smitten with seven year old Susan Mitchison The two children nurture a secret relationship and see each other as romantic characters in a book They finally meet after a slow sensual build up but the relationship is cut short as their families disintegrate and as a playful event brings about sudden tragedy
