

Learning Communities

Learning communities are groups of students who are assigned to a common course and who are required to meet together outside of the classroom. Learning communities are designed to facilitate the development of a sense of community among students, and to encourage them to work together to achieve common goals. Learning communities can be used to promote a variety of learning outcomes, including critical thinking, problem solving, and communication skills.

Learning communities are often used in higher education settings, such as colleges and universities.
