Abstract—This paper presents a new method for the automatic detection of the onset of epileptic seizures. The method is based on the analysis of the non-linear properties of the EEG signal. The non-linear properties are quantified using the Lyapunov exponent, which is a measure of the divergence of trajectories in a phase space. The Lyapunov exponent is calculated for a set of EEG signals, and the results are compared with a threshold. If the Lyapunov exponent is greater than the threshold, a seizure is detected. The method is evaluated using a set of EEG signals from a patient with epilepsy. The results show that the method is able to detect the onset of seizures with a sensitivity of 100% and a specificity of 95%.
