Student Writing In Higher Education New Contexts:

Student Writing in Higher Education Mary Rosalind Lea, Barry Stierer, 2000 This is the first book to examine student writing in the context of major changes taking place in today's higher education. For example, students now come to higher education from an increasingly wide range of cultural and linguistic backgrounds to study in a number of diverse learning environments. Their courses often no longer reflect traditional academic subject boundaries with their attendant values and norms. There is also an increasing recognition of the importance of lifelong learning and the necessity for universities to adapt their provision to make it possible for learners to enter and return to higher education at different points in their lives.

Teaching Academic Writing in European Higher Education Lennart Björk, Gerd Bräuer, L. Rienecker, Peter Stray Jørgensen, 2005-12-30 DAVID R RUSSELL English Department of Iowa State University U.S.A. I was fortunate to attend as a visitor from the U.S. the first European Association for the Teaching of Academic Writing (EATAW) conference in 2001 at Groningen. I was struck by the similarities in the challenges higher education faces on both sides of the Atlantic in terms of developing students' academic writing and students' learning through writing. It is indeed an international problem. But I was equally struck by the profound differences in responding to these challenges among institutions, disciplines, and even within disciplines. The essays in this extraordinary volume address a growing demand for help with academic writing on the part of students and academic staff alike. And they do so in ways that bring fresh approaches not only to Europeans who have only recently begun to study academic writing but also to researchers and academic staff in the U.S. where we have a century-old tradition of attention to the problem but are much in need of these fresh approaches. Academic writing has become a problem in higher education all around the world because higher education sits smack between two contradictory pressures. On one end, far more students and far more diverse students come streaming into higher education, bringing in a far greater diversity of linguistic resources often interpreted as standards. As falling as Frank Haacke Tente point out

Academics

Engaging with Student Writing Jackie Tuck, 2017-07-14 Student writing has long been viewed as a problem in higher education in the UK. Moreover, the sector has consistently performed poorly in the National Student Survey with regard to assessment and feedback. Academics Engaging with Student Writing tackles these major issues from a new and unique angle, exploring the real life experiences of academic teachers from different institutions as they set, support, read, respond to, and assess assignments undertaken by undergraduate students. Incorporating evidence from post-1992 universities, Oxbridge members of the Russell Group and others, this book examines working practices around student writing within the context of an increasingly market-oriented mass higher education system. Presenting a wealth of relevant examples from disciplines as diverse as History and Sports Science, Tuck makes extensive use of interviews, observations, texts and audio recordings in order to explore the perspectives of academic teachers who work with student writers and their texts. This book will be of interest to researchers, academics and postgraduate students in the fields of academic literacies, higher education, language and literacy language in higher education English for academic purposes and assessment Furthermore academic teachers with experience of this crucial aspect of academic labour will welcome Tuck s pioneering work as an indispensable tool for making sense of their own engagement with student writers Learning Development in Higher Education Peter Hartley,John Hilsdon,Christine Keenan,2010-11-17 This book shows how Learning Development enhances the student experience and promotes active engagement Written by staff from the UK s largest collaborative Centre for Excellence in Teaching and Learning CETL the book includes important insights for everyone interested in supporting student retention progression and success The Routledge Handbook of English for Academic Purposes Ken Hyland,Philip Shaw,2016-01-29 The Routledge Handbook of English for Academic Purposes provides an accessible authoritative and comprehensive introduction to English for Academic Purposes EAP covering the main theories concepts contexts and applications of this fast growing area of applied linguistics Forty four chapters are organised into eight sections covering Conceptions of EAP Contexts for EAP EAP and language skills Research perspectives Pedagogic genres Research genres Pedagogic contexts Managing learning Authored by specialists from around the world each chapter focuses on a different area of EAP and provides a state of the art review of the key ideas and concepts Illustrative case studies are included wherever possible setting out in an accessible way the pitfalls challenges and opportunities of research or practice in that area Suggestions for further reading are included with each chapter The Routledge Handbook of English for Academic Purposes is an essential reference for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students of EAP within English Applied Linguistics and TESOL

Helping Doctoral Students Write Barbara Kamler,Pat Thomson,2014-03-21 Helping Doctoral Students Write offers a proven approach to effective doctoral writing By treating research as writing and writing as research the authors offer pedagogical strategies for doctoral supervisors that will assist the production of well argued and lively dissertations It is clear that many doctoral candidates find research writing complicated and difficult but the advice they receive often glosses over the complexities of writing and or locates the problem in the writer Kamler and Thomson provide a highly effective framework for scholarly work that is located in personal institutional and cultural contexts The pedagogical approach developed in the book is based on the notion of writing as a social practice This approach allows supervisors to think of doctoral writers as novices who need to learn new ways with words as they enter the discursive practices of scholarly communities This involves learning sophisticated writing practices with specific sets of conventions and textual characteristics The authors offer supervisors practical advice on helping with commonly encountered writing tasks such as the proposal the journal abstract the literature review and constructing the dissertation argument The first edition of this book has helped many academics and thousands of research students produce better written material Now fully updated the second edition includes Examples from a broader range of academic disciplines A new chapter on writing from the thesis for peer reviewed journals More advice on reading and note taking performance and conferences Further information on developing a personal academic writing style and Advice on the use of social media blogs tweets and wikis to create trans disciplinary and trans national networks and conversations Their discussion of the complexities of forming a scholarly identity is illustrated throughout by stories and writings of actual doctoral students In conclusion they present a persuasive and proven argument that universities must move away from simply auditing supervision to supporting the development of scholarly research communities Any supervisor keen to help their students develop as academics will find the ideas and practical solutions presented in this book fascinating and insightful reading
