Greek Literature: Greek literature in the Hellenistic period Gregory Nagy, 2001 Growth Surprises and Synchronized Slowdowns in Emerging Markets--An Empirical Investigation Ms. Ghada Fayad, Mr. Roberto Perrelli, 2014-09-17

Output growth has slowed in several emerging markets since 2011 a remarkable feature for a non crisis period in EMs Such synchronized slowdowns were largely unanticipated by scholars and forecasters alike In this paper we attempt to shed light on the main drivers of growth surprises and synchronized slowdowns in emerging markets post global financial crisis We find that lower trading partner demand was a key external factor in explaining these events during 2011-13 and that changes in external financing conditions have yet to play a role in EMs growth On the domestic front the withdrawal of the fiscal stimulus put in place right after the Lehman collapse is a relevant aspect in these episodes compounding the effect of the weaker external demand Idiosyncratic factors such as structural bottlenecks with the potential to impair growth in a more lasting fashion also seem to partly explain these events as reflected in the larger residuals found in regression based estimates for certain countries

Eschatology and the Technological Future Michael S. Burdett, 2014-12-05 The rapid advancement of technology has led to an explosion of speculative theories about what the future of humankind may look like These technological futurisms have arisen from significant advances in the fields of nanotechnology biotechnology and information technology and are drawing growing scrutiny from the philosophical and theological communities This text seeks to contextualize the growing literature on the cultural philosophical and religious implications of technological growth by considering technological futurisms such as transhumanism in the context of the long historical tradition of technological dreaming Michael Burdett traces the latent religious sources of our contemporary technological imagination by looking at visionary approaches to technology and the future in seminal technological utopias and science fiction and draws on past theological responses to the technological future with Pierre Teilhard de Chardin and Jacques Ellul Burdett's argument arrives at a contemporary Christian response to transhumanism based around the themes of possibility and promise by turning to the works of Richard Kearney Eberhard Jüngel and Jürgen Moltmann Throughout the author highlights points of correspondence and divergence between technological futurisms and the Judeo Christian understanding of the future

Documents, Including Messages and Other Communications Ohio, 1898 The Book of the Prophet Isaiah, Chapters I-XXXIX, 1896 Multidimensional Democracy Jeffrey J. Harden, 2015-11-26 Multidimensional Democracy examines political representation from the supply legislator and demand constituent perspectives Focusing on four dimensions policy service allocation and descriptive representation it documents systematic variation in what people want from legislators and what legislators choose to emphasize while in office It has important implications for the study of representation as well as normative questions about political inequality in America The demand side results show that constituents who are economically advantaged tend to prefer policy based representation while the disadvantaged place relatively more importance in constituent service and or allocation Suggestive results from the legislator data complement this finding legislators in wealthy white districts tend to focus more on policy while those representing economically disadvantaged and racially diverse districts may place more emphasis on service and or allocation A likely consequence is that the policy choices made by representatives reflect the policy preferences of the economically advantaged because policy representation is what those citizens want Proceedings of the European Cognitive Science Conference 2007 Stella Vosniadou,2017-09-29

This volume contains the invited lectures invited symposia symposia papers and posters presented at the 2nd European Cognitive Science Conference held in Greece in May 2007 The papers presented in this volume range from empirical psychological studies and computational models to philosophical arguments meta analyses and even to neuroscientific experimentation The quality of the work shows that the Cognitive Science Society in Europe is an exciting and vibrant one There are 210 contributions by cognitive scientists from 27 different countries including USA France UK Germany Greece Italy Belgium Japan Spain the Netherlands and Australia This book will be of interest to anyone concerned with current research in Cognitive Science vocal communication Anjali Bhatara,Petri Laukka,Daniel J. Levitin,2014-08-18 Two of the most important social skills in humans are the ability to determine the moods of those around us and to use this to guide our behavior To accomplish this we make use of numerous cues Among the most important are vocal cues from both speech and non speech sounds Music is also a reliable method for communicating emotion It is often present in social situations and can serve to unify a group s mood for ceremonial purposes funerals weddings or general social interactions Scientists and philosophers have speculated on the origins of music and language and the possible common bases of emotional expression through music speech and other vocalizations They have found increasing evidence of commonalities among them However the domains in which researchers investigate these topics do not always overlap or share a common language so communication between disciplines has been limited The aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research across multiple disciplines related to the production and perception of emotional cues in music speech and non verbal vocalizations This includes natural sounds produced by human and non human primates as well as synthesized sounds Research methodology includes survey behavioral and neuroimaging techniques investigating adults as well as developmental populations including those with atypical development Studies using laboratory tasks as well as studies in more naturalistic settings are included
