Testing Friend Or Foe:

Testing, Friend Or Foe? Paul Joseph Black, 1998 Owing to daily work pressures and concerns many teachers have little opportunity for considering and furthering their understanding of different issues surrounding assessment Written in a user friendly jargon free style this text provides the reader with points of growth or change in the field of assessment Each chapter in the text ends with a section on questions exercises and further reading

Testing, Friend Or Foe? Black, Paul Joseph Black, 1998 Human Factors Issues in Combat Identification Robert P. Herz, 2017-09-29 This edited book presents an array of approaches on how human factors theory and research addresses the challenges associated with combat identification Special emphasis is placed on reducing human error that leads to fratricide which is the unintentional death or injury of friendly personnel by friendly weapons during an enemy engagement Although fratricide has been a concern since humans first engaged in combat operations it gained prominence during the Persian Gulf War To reduce fratricide advances in technological approaches to enhance combat identification e g Blue Force Tracker should be coupled with the application of human factors principles to reduce human error The book brings together a diverse group of authors from academic and military researchers to government contractors and commercial developers to provide a single volume with broad appeal Human Factors Issues in Combat Identification is intended for the larger human factors community within academia the military and other organizations that work with the military such as government contractors and commercial developers as well as others interested in combat identification issues including military personnel and policy makers
