

A close-up photograph of various ammunition components and tools. In the foreground, several brass bullet casings are scattered on a light-colored surface. A large, hollow brass casing lies horizontally on the left. In the center, a single bullet with a pointed tip stands upright. To the right, a metal funnel filled with small black顆粒 (likely gunpowder or lead) sits on a scale. In the background, a dark, textured gun case or box is visible. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the metallic textures of the brass and the sharp point of the bullet.
